The Carmel Pine Cone

VOL. 57, NO. 23 15¢ PUBLISHED WEEKLY AT CARMEL-BY-THE-SEA, CALIF. 93921 36 Pages - 2 Sections June 10, 1971

CARMEL ARTIST Eugene Towne titled this striking watercolor, "Lagoon." He says it was inspired by a scene a few miles down the coast from Carmel.

The picture above is a detail from the work which can be seen in the Beardsley Room of the Carmel Art Association as part of its June exhibit of outstanding watercolors.

Letters

Letters to the editor are welcome. While there is no limit on the number of words, please write only enough material to adequately cover the subject. Anonymous letters are not acceptable, although names may be withheld on request.

Dear Editor:

In the Pine Cone of June 3, 1971, H. Lloyd Praeger, Box 545, 624-1050, Carmel stated something in his first paragraph which I strongly object to regarding The Carmel Foundation and Dr. Gascock. I quote Praeger for saying what he did to Dr. Gascock, "He has chosen to sugar coat a very bitter pill by extolling the virtues of the Plan and totally disregarding the specific objections I have set forth."

Irrespective of where one lives in Carmel, there are certain humanitarian actions and thoughts that a good citizen should take. And even if an action hurts him a little bit, a decent respect for the opinion of Carmel residents and the treatment of worthy Carmel Citizens should consider twice before he places his personal feelings.

The Carmel Foundation has done a great deal to help people who have lived in Carmel and reached the position of being unable to pay high rentals. The Foundation has never asked for financial assistance. It is backed and operated by men of philanthropy, and they have done a good job.

There are people who have worked at Social Service or large businesses, and who are now receiving pensions which help a lot. There are others less fortunate, who have been good citizens and have no pension, and have been unable to save up a nest egg. So what happens to them? Do you know that some very fine people cannot afford to enter a retirement home, they must have a large income, buy the house or apartment, pay for maintenance and the bare necessities? I am sure that you will give this plan a second consideration.

The Carmel Foundation has not distrubed any of their neighbors, and have plans to have eleven parking spaces for visiting cars and that no rentor will have a car. They are going to sell the property (some of it), so that it can go back to the tax property at an increased value.

The writer and wife own their home on San Carlos Street, between Tenth and Eleventh Avenues, and that is a busy street. As for Praeger's request for a Commercial Zoning of the disputed property, it could not be done and is not in a favorable location for stores, and other commercial uses. It seems to me like a red-herring to kill the whole project. In words, a blow below the belt. Incidentally, writer has been in Carmel for 25 years.

PHILIP G. PREBLE
Box 232, Carmel

Dear Editor:

About zoning: Carmel consists of approximately 200 city blocks of varying size and shape. Of these, 32 are within or intersected by commercial zoning boundaries. The remaining area is zoned R-1, single family residential.

Within the latter there are currently 20 blocks which sustain uses other than those defined as R-1, these being listed activities. It is known and established that many other non-conforming uses exist but are not openly declared.

Additionally, there are 22 blocks immediately adjacent commercial property and this is exclusive of the above 20 wherein non-conforming uses exist.

Thus we have less than 65 percent of the community currently free of commercial activity, conforming and non-conforming, tourists, traffic and overflow parking—truly residential within the full meaning of the zoning code.

As in all things, there is a point of no return. It is my considered opinion that we are approaching it all too rapidly. Let us back off and take a long, hard look at what we want this community to be before making any more irrevocable changes in zoning.

Very truly yours,
H. LLOYD PRAEGER
Box 545, Carmel

Editor, the Pine Cone:

It was almost too much for a sentimental "old timer:" eating lunch in the Golden Bough Court today as the sun broke through the fog, reading the two Robinson Jeffers poems you printed yesterday and reading Norberg on the Forest Theater.

Jeffers' lives, and so do Bert Heron and the Forest Theater in the hearts of us lucky enough to participate in the "old days" of Carmel. Therefore, how can we let the Forest Theater pass on, merely because it is not self-sustaining financially?

There are many souls, now gone, who will not stop spinning in their graves while the thought is afoot that the Theater will perish. Those souls created the spirit of Carmel.

I summon the "old timers" and those of like conviction to come forth and defend this cherished spot for use, not as a street department storage yard, but as The Forest Theater!

Washington, D.C. 20510

Dear John:

Enclosed is some material describing the threat of extinction that presently faces the Forest Theater in Carmel, California.

I'm sure that you have many other things requiring your attention which have a far more wide-ranging importance in terms of people affected and lives changed.

Nevertheless, I call the situation of the Forest Theater to your attention because I believe not only the Theater itself but the problem of its livelihood is symbolic.

The problems which presently beset the Forest Theater are those involving a lack of sense of community and decreasing interpersonally relating participation in community action. I know of few things more inspiring to me on an evening than to watch an outside theater production with friends and neighbors. It is uplifting to the spirit; through the metaphors of plays it binds the audience in an even greater sense of common challenge and brotherhood.

The movement to save the Forest Theater is just now beginning in Carmel and Monterey. The purpose of this letter is to determine if there are matching funds or any other type of federal assistance available to help restore this historic theater of truly lasting value.

Warmest regards,

only in Carmel...

A NICE OLDER gentleman, retired here from San Francisco, answered a Pine Cone ad and bought some fire wood from a nearby householder's garage. He loaded his car with the smaller pieces but the larger chunks got him perspiring even in the cool cloudiness of forenoon. Then he glanced up and—

"I was going to come back this afternoon with my neighbor's sledge and wedge," he said, "but the sun's out and I've got to get out in it, on the golf course!"

He returned the next day equipped with sledge and wedge, but was obviously unaccustomed to splitting wood—he attacked it somewhat like a lady swatting flies. By mid-morning he was puffing as well as perspiring. He was apologetic.

"I'm imposing on you—this noise in your driveway—and I'm taking so long, I'll get a helper. I have a golf date this afternoon, but I'll be back in the morning."

He was, with sledge, wedge and a tall, rangy youth, who the old gentleman said would not just help but do all the wood chopping.

"My shoulders!" winced the older man. "My arms! My back! My legs! Yesterday morning—it's ruining my golf game."

He watched the young man arc the sledge fluidly over his shoulder and—thunk!—bite the wedge deeply into a thick log.

"See!" cried the elderly man with his native San Francisco sophistication. "He knows how to do things like this. He just came here from West Virginia!"

A CARMEL-PARKED Mercedes-Benz is licensed "MRS ENG."

WE'RE SNEAKING this in—about Muriel, charming wife of the Pine Cone's publisher, George Dobry. Seeing Mrs. Dobry and her daughter at church reminded a reader of a TV commercial in which a youth apologizes, "Oh, pardon me! I thought you were your daughter!"

A LOCAL MAN made a business phone call to an associate in Honolulu and happened to mention the highlights of an art exhibit he had viewed after reading the Pine Cone's Gallery Guide. The Honolulu man is an art collector, interested in one of the painters featured in this showing, so—

He long-distanced the Carmel gallery, asked a few pertinent questions, flew to the Village the next morning, bought a painting which the gallery crated for him—and air-lifted it back to Honolulu that afternoon.

"WAITING ROOM" privileges for Helen Lightner Dean—for many years owner of the Cinderella Shop—are extended by Womble's Pharmacy. When Mrs. Dean needs a cab to take her home from the Village, she phones from the corner drug store, then waits for the taxi's arrival unobtrusively behind the counter in her "special" chair.

ONE OF THE Pine Cone's junior salesmen begged to "help" after he tired of selling papers. He loves "office work" like stapling and rubber-stamping things.

"You can sit here," we invited, then suggested, "Maybe you'd like to take off your baseball cap, as gentlemen do indoors."

"I'm not a gentleman!" he disclaimed indignantly. "I'm a man!"

He's seven years old.

the mayor's report

By BARNEY LAIOLO

IT IS AGAIN that time of year when the closing of schools for vacation is upon us. With this in mind it is my hope that all of us take heed to the fact that our streets will be more crowded—there will be many children both local and visitors, dashing here and there—more lost tourists looking for a place to stay or to find someone's house. Let's be considerate and help these people—let's drive with due caution—let's do our best to keep our city clean.

Also, along these lines, if you can use some of our youth to help around the house or garden, to paint that fence, to polish your car or whatever job you may have, please hire them—they can use the money and you'll be happy knowing you're doing someone a favor. The city is again hiring some of the high school youths to work with Mr. Askew and the Street Department to help clean the beach and trim our local trees.

THIS FRIDAY, I will meet with our congressman, Burt Talcott, along with other mayors and Board of Supervisors members. He has called this meeting to discuss matters relating to our area and at this time, I will also discuss with him our post office porject and several other important subjects that affect us directly. I hope I'll be able to report some good news to you next week.

THIS WEEK I will also attend a sympsoium at the Naval Postgraduate School which deals with the Maritime Challenge for 1971. This will cover oceanography, ocean resources, transportation and commerce. This comes at a good time for we are also very much involved in our own immediate coastline and the potential changes which could take place here. Will keep you informed on these happenings.

ON FRIDAY, I will attend the graduating ceremonies of the Central Coast Counties Police Academy. One of the members of our police force will be graduating. He is Paul Fisher. It will be my pleasure to attend this ceremony as I believe it is of great service to our citizens to have men who will take the time to work and receive these degrees, which in turn gives us the fine-quality of policemen our city enjoys.

While we are talking about police functions, isn't it interesting that they were called by the Street Department to indetify some marijuana plants. And where do you suppose these plants were found? It's apparent that while the Street Department was doing such a fine job of upgrading our planters on Ocean Avenue, someone had a bright idea of planting marijuana seeds when we weren't looking. It was a nice try, but didn't work too well—good work, men!

Gives social security increase to OLAF

Edna Rankin McKinnon of Hacienda Carmel is "77½" years old and although she moved here from the beautiful country that is Montana four years ago, she says, "There is nothing more beautiful in the world, in my opinion, than the Carmel Valley."

Having this opinion, it is perhaps not surprising that the Pine Cone received the following leeter from Mrs. McKinnon:

"Many of us who live in the Monterey Peninsula area received an increase in our Social Security checks this month.

"How helpful it would be if all of us who can manage without it would pledge the amount of that increase to OLAF (Odello Land Acquisition Fund) for a year or more.

"Those interested can write or telephone to OLAF - P.O. Box 3844, Carmel 93921, or 624-2820 and ask for a pledge statement and they will advise you when payments should begin."

Mrs. McKinnon told the Pine Cone that when she suddenly received an increase in her Social Security check "it occurred to me that I had already made a pledge to OLAF, which seems to me to be very important, and that here is a way for people to give."

While the increase might be a way for other people to give, it is, for Mrs. McKinnon, a way "for me to give more."

"The thing is, a lot of us who live on fixed incomes don't have a lot on which to live. But we can sacrifice a little and a little can help a great deal."

Mrs. McKinnon thinks OLAF "is a program aimed at saving the environment in a great way."

ARIZONA GRAD

Jack F. Foreman of Carmel received his master of arts degree during recent commencement ceremonies at Northern Arizona University at Flagstaff.

West Point graduate

LT. ROBERT HARVEY

Cadet Robert C. Harvey, son of Brig. Gen. (USA, Ret.) and Mrs. Clarence C. Harvey of 4037 Sunridge Road, Pebble Beach, was graduated yesterday from the U.S. Military Academy, West Point, N.Y.

Cadet Harvey received a bachelor of science degree and was commissioned a second lieutenant in the U.S. Army. His career branch will be the field artillery. He received a presidential appointment to the Military Academy.

While at West Point, Cadet Harvey, whose father was a 1938 graduate of the academy, was a member of the Rocket Society and captain of the gymnastics team.

Remember When?

50 YEARS AGO:

From the Pine Cone, June 9, 1921:

The Forest Theatre has been a busy scene throughout the past week and the carpenters are preparing to start the actual work of constructing the quaint old buildings which will furnish the background for the performance of "Pomander Walk," which opens the season on the evening of July 2nd.

There is a rumor about town that Perry Newberry is planning to move to Pacific Grove. We can't believe it—can you?

The beauty of last Sunday was marred by many accidents to automobile parties.

The problems of handling the hundreds of hobo felines which have long since been a menace to the bird life and the peaceful slumbers of Carmel has at last received official attention.

Carmel will soon be on a direct highway between San Francisco and Los Angeles if everything that Senator Rigdon said is true.

25 YEARS AGO:

From the Pine Cone, June 7, 1946:

Homer Levinson (of Carmel) has had a story accepted by Esquire magazine and it will be published in the July issue. Title of the story is "A Swim at Sunset." This is his first story to be accepted, after three-and-a-half years' work at writing.

Carmel first nighters were rewarded with a sustained thrill last Monday evening when the Golden Bough Players presented "Night Must Fall."

John Dovalis, police department clerk, is back on the job with a plaster cast around his ankle, after a week at home, nursing a sprain he received when he stumbled going down the city hall stairway last Friday evening.

Bill Herlihy discovered the grass fire behind the high school gymnasium Tuesday morning. He reported the conflagration to Howard Byrne's shop class and school was out—for that class, anyway.

10 YEARS AGO:

From the Pine Cone, June 8, 1961:

Carmel schools will join an increasing number of schools throughout the country in trying out "the new mathematics," the Carmel School Board decided last night.

"I request that no additional parking limit zones be considered until some method is provided to correct the present problem of monopolizing parking spaced, thereby giving all an equal opportunity of finding parking space in our business area"—Chief of Police Clyde P. Klaumann to the City Council.

Last night the city council learned there are limits beyond which the traditional Carmel permissiveness toward dogs may go.

Petition by 74 village residents protests unleashed dogs, motorcycles

A petition signed by 74 village residents asking for control of dogs and motorcycles in the residential area was presented to the City Council last night.

Councilmen referred the petition, which was circulated by James A. Moody of Forest Road, to a committee for study.

City Administrator and City Clerk Hugh Bayless says that "there is an increasing number of complaints about dogs annoying people, attacking people and barking." He said Carmel residents feel they have the right to walk their streets without being harassed by menacing dogs.

As to motorcycles, he said, "There is nothing much the city can do at the moment on the abatement of noise by motorcycles," but that there is state legislation pending which, if passed, would allow the city to pass anordinance to control noisy two-wheeled vehicles.

"Right now the field is preempted by the state," he sais.

The petition reads:

"Gentlemen: Let us make Carmel noiseless. Our residential areas are no longer the places we all moved here to reside in peacefully.

"If there are laws to enforce noiselessness, let us use them severely. If there are not laws to keep us all in a quiet area let us create new laws to demand silence.

"Point No. 1. DOGS. No longer can we take strolls and pleasant, healthy walks thru our residential areas. These unkept big dogs are not on leashes and they hurl themselves out of yard after yard to snap at pedestrians—growl, jump at the ankles. If one is on a bicycle, he must carry a club to beat off the attacking dogs. They knock over and abuse little children.

"The newcomers to Carmel go to the office, or shopping or out for this or that and leave their dogs out to annoy the public all day. These chainless dogs howl and bark and whine in earsplitting noises all day and night, and attack every object that passes the houses—mechanical or human. Let us stop this complete lack of consideration for one's neighbors.

"Point No. 2. MOTORCYCLES. If you lived on Forest Road as I do and were forced to listen hour after hour day and night to the motorcycles with no mufflers on them emitting ear and nerve shattering noises emerging from these speeding machines you would agree with all of us that these motorcycles should be FORCED to be silenced.

"All of us who have signed these papers will appreciate everything you may do to cease this most refent invasion of animals and machines."

Business association asks council to move fire station

The Carmel Business Association's report on the eternal village parking problems, which includes a recommendation for a new fire station location, was presented to the City Council at last night's regular monthly meeting.

The lengthy five-page report, which was printed in full in the March 11 edition of the Pine Cone, was expected to be sent to a council committee for study.

Among the CBA recommendations:

—That the Planning Commission, in consultation with the fire department, prepare a policy statement and plan for a new fire station location.

Because of the value of land at the existing fire station location at Sixth and San Carlos, the CBA says "an advantageous real estate trade is a possibility."

The CBA states that a new site could increase apparatus and service areas which would result in better protection and an overall lowering of fire insurance rates while more parking stalls could be acquired through a stipulation for off-street parking for the new business or businesses at the Sixth street site.

—That progressively increasing fines be instigated for repeated parking violations by the same vehicle in any one-year period.

—That employers be requested to instruct their employees to park their cars out of the downtown business zone. (The police department has numerous times pointed to village businessmen and their employees as being among the greatest violators of over-parking.)

—That a committee be formed at once comprising two members of the Planning Commission, the Parking and Traffic Committee and the CBA to investigate quadrant off-street parking and peripheral parking lots, also to preapre criteria for an expert feasibility and cost study of underground parking facilities and to name contractors competent to make such a study.

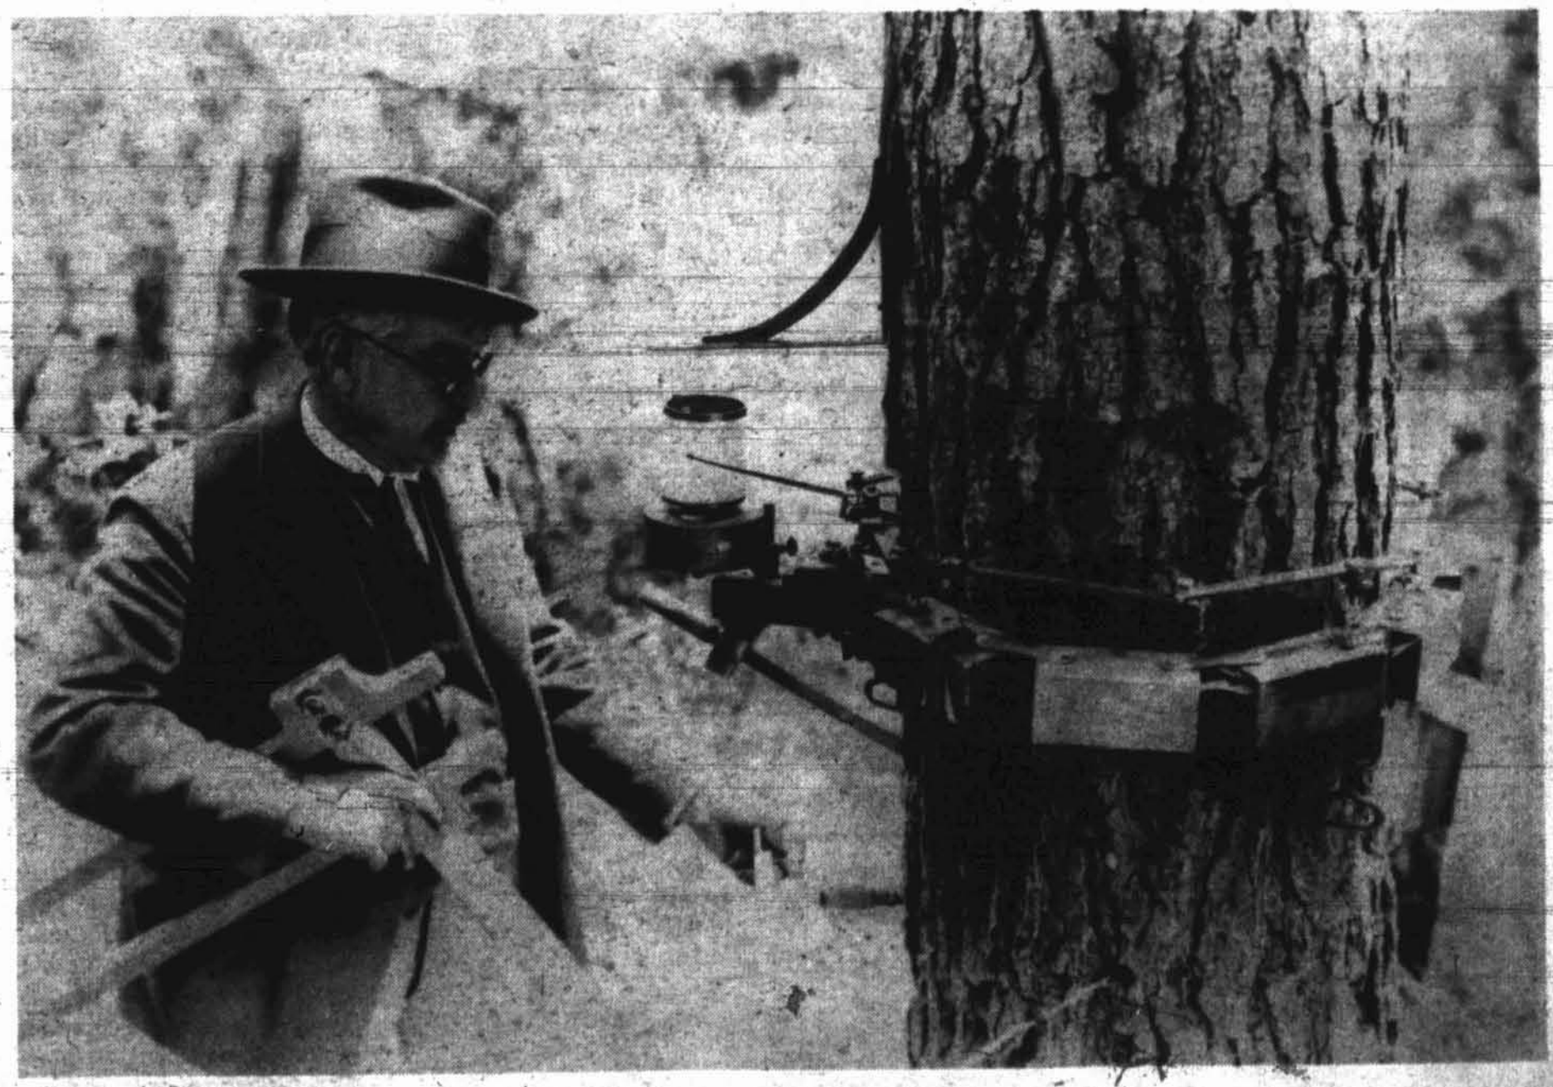
The CBA recommends that financing of and studies or projects could come in part from the hostelry tax, greenbelt fund and parking assessments.

GETS AWARD AT CAL POLY

Michael F. Burz, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Burz of 3750 Whitman Circle, Carmel, was presented the "40 et 8" Youth Excellence Medal at the recent annual awards ceremony conducted by the Army Reserve Officer Training Corps of California State Polytechnic College in San Luis Obispo.

The award was made to Burz, an aeronautical engineering freshman, for displaying outstanding attirubtes of leadership, and inspiring respect and confidence of his classmates in the accomplishments of the ojbectives of the ROTC program.

Good grief! What's he doing?



WHAT'S HE DOING? An unidentified scientist is seen drilling, measuring and recording data on complicated scientific gadgets in early Carmel. The picture, furnished by Pat Hathaway, was resurrected from an old collection. The Pine Cone would like to hear from any of our readers who may be able to identify the man in the photo and tell us what he was doing.

Carmel High seniors win

Many seniors will take more than a diploma with them when they graduate from Carmel High School tomorrow.

Scholarships and other awards for leadership, service and academic achievement were presented at a recent student assembly to the following graduates, and a few juniors and sophomores:

Scholarships and honors by colleges, universities and other organizations:

Robin Bell - U.C. Berkeley Alumni Scholarship

Greg Granoff - University of the Pacific Scholarship

Glen Harnish - Harvard Scholarship, American Waterworks Scholarship, California School Employees Association Scholarship and Monterey Elks Award

Boug McCall - U.C. Santa Barbara Scholarship

Debbie Nystrom - California Lutheran College Regents Scholarship

Bill Yates - NROTC, Cornell University

California State Scholarships:

The scholarship is based upon good grades, high SAT scores and need. All State Scholars this year are within the highest 10 percent of college aptitude. There were approximately 6,023 awards made available to a maximum of $2,000, but in no event in excess of tuition and fees at the college or university selected by the award winner. The State Scholars were selected from approximately 33,000 applicants:

Chris Foley, Greg Granoff, Geln Harnish, Susan Helm, Christine Lundblad, Marnie Mark, Doug McCall, Clarissa McDaniel, John Neale, Debbie Nystrom, Marsha Wilsey

D.A.R. Good Citizenship Award:

The purpose of this award is to bring to the minds of young women the privileges of citizenship and responsibilities which make these privileges possible. Girls are chosen on the basis of qualities of leadership, dependability, service and patriotism.

Meredith Sinclair

National Merit Scholarship Program:

The purpose of this program is: a) to identify students of unusual intellectual attainment and promise; b) to honor those students by calling public attention to them) c) to help as many as possible attend the college of their choice; and d) to provide a means whereby corporations, colleges and others can offer them financial assistance.

Students receive Letters of Commendation or become finalists on the basis of scores received on the National Merit Scholarship Test given in the junior year and confirmed by the SAT in the senior year. The test was given to over 800,000 students last year.

The following students have received Letters of Commendation honoring them for their high performances on the National Merit Test. They are among the 40,000 students in the United States who scored in the upper 2 percent of those who will graduate from high school in 1971:

National Merit winners are among the top one half of one percent of high school graduates in the United States. Mr. D. Ross Sullivan, Traveling Representative of the Santa Fe Railroad, presented this award to: Glen Harnish.

Departmental Awards

1) Mathematics Association of America: John Moody

2) Annual High School Physics Symposium at the University of Santa Clara: Don Draper and John Moody

3) Chemistry Award: Tony Tormo (AFS)

4) Awards to students who have achieved high standards in film-making:

Rich Burch, Guy Cabot and Pat Clancy, Jerri Masten, Kim Weston.

John Moody - United States Naval Academy

Rotary Club Scholarship

Clarissa McDaniel is outstanding student at high school

The holder of the Outstanding Student Award for the Carmel High School Class of 1971 is a girl who loves the outdoors and working with children.

She is Clarissa McDaniel, who will be valedictorian at Carmel High School graduation ceremonies tonight.

Clarissa received a bronze medallion and a check for $100 from the California Savings and Loan Association for being the student who exerted "extra effort to achieve an all-round outstanding record during high school years...based on the criteria of scholastic achievement, civic responsibility and school leadership."

She won two other awards that will be of substantial help when she enrolls at Stanford in September—a California State Scholarship and a Carmel High School Scholarship.

In addition, she was one of three students named a California Scholarship Federation Sealbearer, and received a Bank of America achievement award for foreign language, which in her case is Spanish.

But when she is asked what she will remember most about her high school years, Clarissa doesn't mention any honors.

Instead, she speaks enthusiastically about the Sierra Club and long hikes through Los Padres National Forest, or about the bike club and tennis team which have occupied much of her free time.

As a member of the Spanish Club, she spent one semester tutoring migrant farm children on weekends, and she is looking forward to returning as a Camp Amigos counselor this summer.

She has no set goal in mind, although she thinks she might major in biology at Stanford.

One thing she does promise: her valedictory will not be "a typical speech."

It will not be about any particular subject, but will be geared to the graduates themselves. "I don't want anyone to feel isolated," she said last week.

Beyond that, she wouldn't give a hint of what she will say.

CLARISSA McDANIEL

awards for achievement

Pins:

The program of honor award pins was initiated in 1959 by the Carmel High School PTA. Implementation of the program was made possible by a grant of $700 by the Carmel Rotary Club. The Rotary provides continuing financial support to the program.

The purpose of this program is to recognize high scholarship of students. Necessary scholarship to be awarded a pin is two semesters of 3.5 (B plus) average for semester grades.

Class of 1971:

The following students have been granted their diamond pins: Susan Dean, Glen Harnish, Clarissa McDaniel and Jane Miller, James Arnn, Tom Pelton and Deborah Snyder.

Gold Scholarship pins were awarded to Jim Poulos (previous award), Christine Boyer, Larry Jung, Fritzi Nelson, Bill Yates, Barbara Roberts and Meredith Sinclair.

Silver Scholarship pins for: Madeleine Dudley, Cassie Harkins, Marnie Mark and Debbie Nystrom (already received).

Bronze pins for: Robin Bell, Susan Graham, Christine Lundblad, Charlene Pias, Juliana Sharra, Doug McCall, John Moody, Lee Stewart and Marsha Wilsey.

Class of 1972:

Received Gold pins: JoAnne Coss, Tom Dormody and Linda Wilson.

Received Silver pins: Marianne Gilletee and Greg Sandman.

Received Bronze pins: Mayo Hartman, Terri Jaseau and Kim Korpi.

Class of 1973:

Received Bronze pins: Julie Brown, Carolyn Comings, Lari Dawson, Mona Mendy, Eleanor Morrice, Anne Pomeroy and John Toldi.

Bank of America Awards:

The purpose of these awards is to recognize and honor outstanding seniors whose scholastic achievement, sense of civic responsibility and evidence of leadership give most promise of future success and service to society.

Certificates were awarded to the following students who were chosen by the various departments for excellent performance in a specific area:

Mathematics - Don Draper
Laboratory Science - James Arnn
Music - Brian Bennett
Art - Randy Bowman
Drama - Susan Domke
English - Jane Miller
Social Science - Ted Weller
Foreign Language - Clarissa McDaniel
Business - Colleen O'Reilly
Home Economics - Linda Petree
Trade and Industrial - Dan Campbell

Plaques were awarded to students who have demonstrated outstanding achievement in the following general fields:

Science and Mathematics - Glen Harnish
Fine Arts - Gregory Granoff
Liberal Arts - Lee Stewart

California Savings and Loan Association - Outstanding Student Award.

The objective of this award is to give recognition to a student who exerts extra effort to achieve an all-around outstanding record during high school years. Selection is based on the criteria of scholastic achievement, civic responsibility and school leadership. The winner receives a bronze medallion and a check for $100.00.

Clarissa McDaniel.

Monterey Peninsula Kiwanis Club Scholarship.

This award is awarded to a senior as an incentive to continue his education in a vocational or semi-professional program at a junior college, technical institute or trade school.

Jon Fletcher

Carmel Republican Women's Club Book Fund Award.

The Carmel Republican Women's Club has established a book fund scholarship for a graduating senior at each of the four high schools on the Monterey Peninsula. The recipient should be a student interested in, or active in politics, or interested in pursuing the field of political science in college.

Susan Helm

Carmel High School Scholarships.

These scholarships are made possible by a generous grant each year from the Carmel Builders Supply, and by money raised at food booths operated at the Laguna Seca Road Races, and by the Padre Parents Bargain Fair. The winners of these scholarships are chosen by a Scholarship Committee made up of faculty members, parents and students.

Debbie Snyder - Carmel Builders Supply Scholarship; Brian Bennett, Susan Dean, Paul Hariri, Jack Holgrem, Marnie Mark, Doug McCall, Clarissa McDaniel, Debbie Nystrom, Tom Pelton and Juliana Sbarra.

Outstanding Athlete of the Year

Joe Carter, track - undefeated in low and high hurdles; also varisty wrestler and offensive and defensive back on football team.

Jim DeAmaral - MVP varsity baseball team; All-League award, Team-s MVP - batted .435, fielded .972.

Glen Harnish garners awards galore on graduation

Glen C. Harnish, the Carmel High School salutatorian, is the graduate with honors and scholarships to spare.

Glen, who was student body president last semester, is the only student on the Monterey Peninsula to receive a four-year National Merit Scholarship, which means he ranks in the top one half of one percent of high school graduates in the United States.

In addition, Glen was awarded a scholarship to Harvard, an American Waterworks scholarship, a California School Employees Association Scholarship, a California State Scholarship, the Monterey Elks Award, the Bank of America award for science and mathematics, and a diamond Rotary Club pin for scholarship.

The tall youth, who lives on Cabrillo Street in Carmel, has also been captain of the varsity tennis team. His mother, Ella Jean Harnish, is school secretary at the high school.

His other activities include terms as president of the Inter-Club Council and Key Club and membership in the Science and Lettermen's Clubs.

His merit scholarship is sponsored by the Santa Fe Railway Foundation, a non-profit corporation sponsored by the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railway. The foundation provides five Merit Scholarships to students who are children of Santa Fe personnel or who are residents of states served by Santa Fe.

Glen's grandfather on his mother's side, the late Samuel Robert James, was a Santa Fe engineer in Bakersfield.

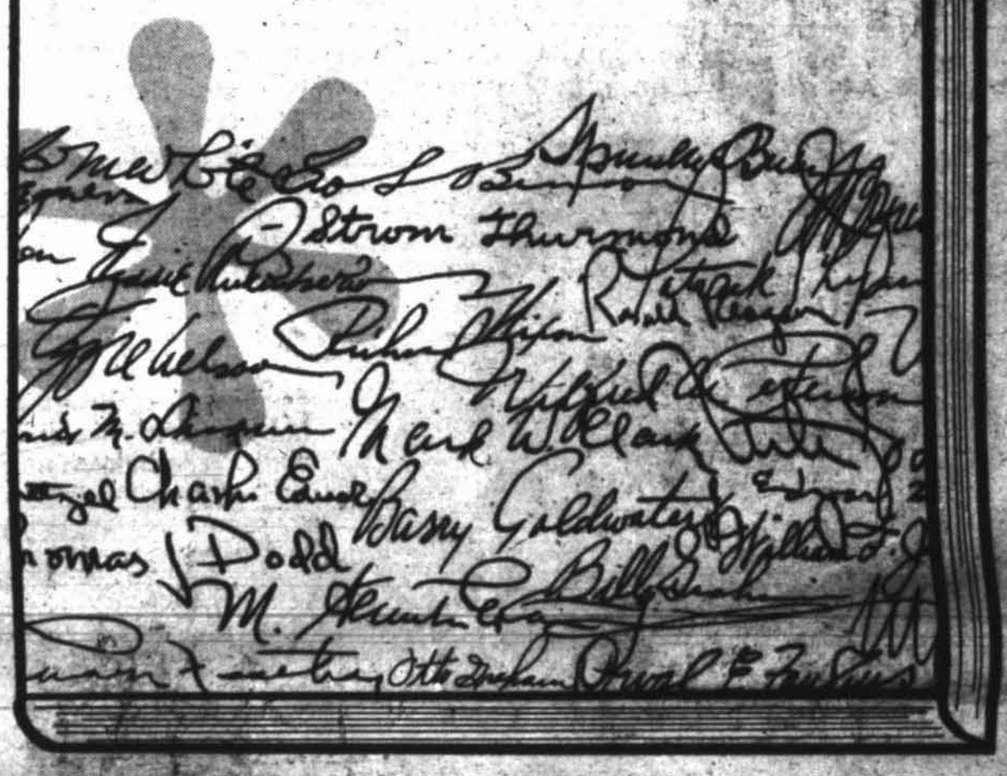
Here's a $3.00 gift for your son, grandson or neighbor that will return dividends.

here's how by who's who

A Compilation of Messages From Successful Men, Directed to the Youth of America, in the Hope that Herein will be Found a Spark of Inspiration that will Point the Way to Individual Achievement.

By Jesse Grover Bell



"Here's How By Who's Who" is a book of advice to the boys of America. The chapters were written personally by our Nation's leaders. Richard Nixon, Ronald Reagan, Douglas MacArthur, Herbert Hoover and fifty-two others. Each man contributed a message, his photograph, and his autograph.

The book was compiled by the late J. G. Bell, board chairman of Bonne Bell, Inc., to provide inspiration and guidance for the boys and young men of America. He personally contacted prominent men in government, business entertainment and other fields to ask their cooperation. Such men as those listed above, plus Lawrence Welk, Everett Dirksen, Mark Clark and Barry Goldwater (to name a few) personally wrote letters for the book.

Mr. Bell published this book at his own expense, and made it available at low cost for the benefit of Boys Club of America.

We have obtained a limited quantity of the first edition, published in 1956 and now out-of-print. There won't be any more—so this is really a collector's item, as well as a good book for now and future generations...for your son, grandson or neighbor boy.

To obtain a copy, send your check for $3 (plus tax) with the coupon..or bring it to our offices at 600 South Main Street, in Salinas. If you are not delighted, we will gladly refund your money.

BUT - ACT NOW. Supplies really are limited (and that's NOT just an advertising gimmick)...and it will have to be "first come - first served." No phone orders, please.

TO: Dick Bragg Agency, 600 S Main St., Salinas 93901

Enclosed is my check for $3.00 (plus tax). Send me a copy of "Here's How By Who's Who." If not satisfied, I will return the book within five days and my money will be refunded.

A conversation with graduation speakers

'Freedom' is the key word in describing Middle School

BY PAT GRIFFITH

Students at Carmel Middle School enjoy much more freedom than do most of their contemporaries attending junior high school elsewhere. And while this freedom is a little frightening to incoming sixth graders, it is what graduating eighth graders appreciate and respect most about the school.

These were some of the thoughts expressed last week by six students who will share honors as graduation speakers tomorrow. They are student body president Pat Hill, class president Charles Hirschkind, and Blanca Zarazua, Jeff Ryan, Diane Fearn and Julie Brown.

During an informal conversation a few days before graduation, they shared some ideas about the school they are leaving and what it has meant to them.

They all agreed with Julie's observation that "there's much more freedom here than at other schools." On a student exchange day, they visited other junior highs on the Monterey Peninsula and were unfavorably impressed with the restrictions and "feeling of repression" they experienced.

"Freedom is hard on some people," Julie continued, "and they can be tempted to take advantage of it."

"But not too many do," said Diane. "You grow along with the freedom, and I think most kids respect what they have here."

What is this freedom? It's being able to chose what to wear to school, what courses to take during an optional first period, what projects and special interests to pursue in required courses and, in some cases, what standards should be applied to one's own achievement.

Above all, according to the graduates, freedom at Middle School connotes an attitude of openness and flexibility on the part of the staff and teachers.

"It's much easier to learn that way," Pat said. "You feel more free to take in stuff than you would if everything was always set out a certain way."

In this "open" atmosphere, these graduates felt they had a large measure of responsibility for what they did, or didn't, learn.

"It's really up to the individual to learn," Blanca said flatly. Diane agreed, adding that "teachers can guide you, but you have to want to learn yourself."

"I think it's a combination of both," Pat said. "It takes the teacher to get something for you, and then the rest is up to you."

Not surprisingly, they found they got the most out of classes they liked the best.

For Diane it was "math with Mrs. Mason, where I've learned more thananywhere."For Blanca it was music and the help she received from the band teacher, Henry Avila, while Julie praised another math teacher, "Mr. Klaumann, who taught me responsibility and how to get my work done without complaining."

The industrial arts class ranked as "most worthwhile" with Jeff and Charles, while Pat coupled that course with math, "which is my favorite subject and I learn a lot there because I want to."

Jeff noted that there seems to be a school-wide tendency

"I think students should get to sit in on more meetings."

for grades to drop as students progress from the sixth to the eighth grade. "At least there aren't as many in the class on the honor roll in the eighth grade as there were in the sixth."

Charles suggested that "sometimes you get bored with the everyday things you do," so that by the eighth grade some students tend to slack off.

"I think it's because this is the last year you have to fool around," Diane laughed. "When you get in high school you have to bear down and think about college or jobs and all that. So this is the last year to really be young. So enjoy it while it's there."

To the inevitable adult question "what about drugs?" Julie had a blunt response.

"It's overpublisized. There aren't that many drugs here. A few may be on drugs, but then that gets overemphasized. It's certainly nothing so that parents should keep kids from going here. After all, they have to learn about things sometime."

Diane said that community counselor John Frykman "can get along with kids and he's okay, but some of the people who have come in to talk – wow, are they awful!"

Jeff said he knew of many eighth graders who didn't take Frykman's optional course on drugs "because we'd all been through that special Lockheed program last year, and it was so terrible, really bad. So they didn't want to take any more courses."

"I think the prisoners (from Soledad) who came and talked about drugs helped a lot more than any course," Julie said, "because they could talk from real experience."

"That also changed my opinion about some of the inmates," Diane added. "That was a good program. But when you get some detectives coming in and showing samples of different drugs, it just turns people off. They haven't had any experience with drugs themselves, and it just doesn't work."

If they suddenly had full power to operate Middle School themselves, what would they do?

"Have longer dances, so they're not over at 10," said Julie.

"I'd have a free campus," Pat said, "except it is a problem because we're not really close to any stores. And there'd be a problem with the sixth graders, because they couldn't handle it – going off campus and all."

"I think there's too big a difference between the sixth and eighth grade," answered Diane. "I'd keep the sixth grade in grammar school."

Pat said he would try to promote a "better student council feeling. There's sort of a dull feeling about the student council, with the feeling you have to do things a certain way. And lots of people get on student council just to get out of class."

If Charles were in charge, he would have students sit in on all meetings with the faculty and would generally include them in planning sessions. But he'd keep the sixth grade at Middle School where it is.

"They might as well get used to it," he said. "You can't hold them back forever."

Jeff's suggestion would be to have more joint student-faculty activities such as softball games and other informal get-togethers.

No one is yet willing to make a long-term committment on college, career or post-school goals. But all come from homes where the preference, if not flat assumption, is that they will go on to college.

"Of course my parents want me to go to college," Diane said, "but they're not going to make me go if I don't want to. Right now I do think I want to go to college, but I may change my mind."

"I think my parents will give me a choice, but they'd really rather I went to college," Jeff said.

College means money, and no one in this group expects a free ride.

"I think my parents plan for me to go to college, and they'll have enough money to start me out, but then I'll have to work," Pat commented.

"I think it's all right if parents help out to start with," Charles chimed in, "but then you would be responsible for yourself if possible."

Blanca agreed, saying that "if you pay your own way to college, it means you'll really want to get something out of it."

Out of these six students, only Jeff and Diane are relative "newcomers" to the area. Jeff's family moved here two years ago from Eugene, Oregon, while Diane arrived at about the same time from San Jose.

Jeff misses the outdoor life in Oregon and the advantages he had enjoyed living near the University of Oregon campus. But Diane thinks Carmel is "one hundred percent better" than San Jose.

"I don't know where I'd live but here," Julie said. "Everyplace else has smog."

Added Blanca: "I feel like this is the only place in the world."

First graduates from All Saints' Day School

The first eighth grade graduating class in the history of All Saints' Day School will be honored at a ceremony Friday at 11 a.m. at St. Philip's Lutheran Church.

David Murphy will speak on behalf of his fellow graduates, who include Tanya Bilbeisi, Audrey Coleman, Cobina Beaudette, David Goodhue, Patrick Grant, Bonnie Jean Mills, Carrie Stephens and Matthew Richards.

Awards for outstanding achievement will also be presented at the graduation ceremony.

Local graduates at MPC Commencement on Friday

A total of 465 students will be awarded Associate in Arts of Associate in Science degrees in Monterey Peninsula College's twenty-fourth annual commencement on Friday at 2:30 p.m. in the new MPC amphitheater.

Receiving diplomas, in addition to the 312 members of the Class of June, 1971, will be 60 students who graduated in summer, 1970, and 93 who finished their studies at MPC in January, 1971.

Commencement addresses will be delivered by Christopher Snow of Carmel, ASMPC prime minister and a graduating sophomore; June graduates Wanda Allen of Fort Ord and Donald Taylor of Seaside; and Dr. George J. Faul, MPC president.

Following the outdoor ceremony, the Faculty Wives Association will host a reception for the graduates and their guests in the College Center.

The candidates for graduation from Carmel and Carmel Valley are:

AUGUST 1970

Carmel: David J. Erskine, Jose M. Fernandez Jr., Robert D. Gamble, Ressa J. Golden, John P. Groark, Constance S. Peirsol, Roland K. Percival and Petra L. Porter.

JANUARY 1971

Carmel: James H. Barnhart Jr., Douglas E. Cunningham, David E. Hidy and Shimighiro Sato,

Carmel Valley: Patricia M. Meharry and David G. Papineau.

JUNE 1971

Carmel: Philip Arnold, Andrea M. Azedo, Victoria G. Bell, Belinda B. Blout, Deborah R. Bohannan, Langdon W. Breuer, Gayle M. Campbell, Karen A. Christian, Cherylann Dickey, Donna A. Doenges, Wayne E. Elliott, Robert J. Ford, Ronald R. Ford, Christina F. Halle, Nicolette F. Hariri, Robert B. Harris, Patrice D. Holloway, Stephen J. Jacobs, Shelley R. Lamar, Pamela M. Neal, Brent R. GET CERTIFICATES FROM M.P.C.

Nine Carmel and Pebble Beach residents are among 90 Monterey Peninsula College students who have been recommended for MPC certificates of achievement and will receive them this month.

In data processing, Robert J. Ford and Kim Lee Robinson of Carmel and Alan Kai-Leong Ho and Kathleen D. Williams of Pebble Beach will receive certificates; in dental assisting, Irene M. Cribbet of Carmel; in electronics, Guy S. McLean of Carmel; in hotel-motor hotel-restaurant management, Andrea M. Azedo of Carmel; in medical assisting, Kathy M. Ferrari and Barbara J. Talarico of Carmel.

Graduation leads to Disneyland for Carmel High School seniors

Graduation ceremonies tonight will be the beginning—but certainly not the end—of a long, long evening for the Carmel High School Class of 1971.

The graduation will be held on the football field at the high school, starting at 7 p.m. There will be two student speakers, Salutatorian Glen Harnish and Valedictorian Clarissa McDaniel.

After diplomas have been awarded and the ceremony ends, around 9 p.m., the Carmel High School band will start playing. And it will keep playing until midnight, when the new graduates will board buses for an all-night drive to Disneyland.

The class is scheduled to return about 6 a.m. Saturday, just in time to sleep through the first weekend of summer vacation.

Four local scholars make dean's list at UC Santa Barbara

Four students from the Carmel area were honored recently for inclusion on the 1971 winter quarter dean's list at the University of California at Santa Barbara.

Requirements for this honor are grades of B-plus (3.5) or better.

They are;

Melvin Nobel Grimes, jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. M.N. Grimes; Roger Lewis Ritter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Genevieve C. Ritter; Diane Susan Swift, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eben F. Swift, and Mary Kathryn Jennings, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Jennings.

Ritter received a straight A (4.0) average.

Six students share speaking honors at Middle School graduation

IN TRUE EXECUTIVE STYLE, graduating Middle School student body president Pat Hill ponders the role of the administrator from behind principal Orville Rogers' desk. Actually Pat put his feet up on the desk at the request of photographer George T.C. Smith. But it must have been a natural, comfortable position for the outgoing executive, because that's where they remained.

The traditional stains of "Pomp and Circumstance" will open the Middle School graduation program at 5 p.m.

Class president Charles Hirschkind, who will welcome the graduates and invited guests, will share speaking honors with five graduates – Diane Fearn, Pat Hill, Julie Brown, Jeff Ryan and Blanca Zarazua.

Also on the program will be two numbers by the girls' choir – "No Man is an Island" and "Try to Remember," which will be sung by Lela Beck, Julie Lipman, Barbie Leonard, Nancy Parsons, Wendy Thorpe, Luann Richards, Diane Golden, Lisa McCusker and Livia Giusi.

Honor awards will be presented by Charles Strathmeyer, president of the Carmel Valley Kiwanis Club.

All this will precede the big moment – the presentation of the Class of 1971 by Superintendent of Schools Harris Taylor, and awarding of certificates by Dr. Hilton Bialek, a member of the board of education.

The Middle School band, under the direction of Henry Avila, will play the Recessional to conclude the ceremony.

We extend a proud salute to our grads, with all good wishes for a bright successful future.

REFLECTIONS ON THE MUSICAL SCENE

IV ORCHESTRAL AND CHORAL

IF A LISTENER has been oriented for many years to the sonorous quality of the large urban orchestras of both the U.S. and Europe, he tends to look askance at the so-called "community" orchestras of the smaller non-urban areas.

When one arrives on the scene, however, one realizes that an honest and correct evaluation of same requires consideration of the various factors involved. Criticism without any constructive effort is only destructive, and serves no purpose at all.

First, and foremost, these orchestras must not be judged in comparison with the large, well-established orchestras, but must stand or fall on their own merits—programming, interpretation, performance, and general musical rationale. This involved a hard look at the various facets and sections of an orchestra.

In traditional music, the strings are the backbone of the orchestra, and are given the most important melodic parts of the score. Highly expressive, adaptable, and not too "individual," they are used throughout most compositions with only short interruptions.

The string section of our Monterey County Symphony, although responding quite well, must be reinforced to obtain more weight of tone, particularly in the cello and bass viols sections.

Next in importance as melody instruments are the woodwinds, each of which has a very characteristic timbre. The woodwinds are generally used sparingly as color effects imposed on the basic drawing of the violins.

In the brass group, the horns (French horns) are rather similar in character and use to the woodwinds. Particularly, in early symphonies, such as those of Haydn and Mozart, they are usually combined with the oboes.

The trumpets and the trombones, the "heavy artillery" of the orchestra, serve chiefly as a reinforcement for the climaxes of massed sound. They are also valuable for soft effects, and as solo instruments, the trombones to express solemn grandeur, and the trumpets for brilliant passages of a military or other chracter.

The woodwinds and the brass in Maestro Taeuber's orchestra, although at present showing a good extroverted sound, must, however, be aligned more directly with the string section, both physically and musically.

The percussion group contributes rhythmic life and also special effects (triangles, cymbals, celesta). In addition, the musical changes that have been brought in by twentieth century orchestral techniques have also brought in new sounds. Such are those obtained by "perverted orchestration," e.g., giving the melody to the brass, and using the strings for percussive effects, as in the compositions of Stravinsky.

New sounds have also been elicited from standard instruments, especially percussion and harp; the adoption of Latin American or other exotic instruments; the employment of unusual sound effect instruments, and the use of newly-invented instruments such as the vibraphone and electronic music.

While building the Monterey County Symphony Orchestra into a more effective organization, Taeuber will be obliged to obtain a more responsive note from all the members of the orchestra so that he may feel freer on the podium and, therefore, broaden his interpretative range. His drive will then become a combination of precision, expressiveness and interpretation. In this manner, he will ultimately achieve clarity of texture, a fineness of line, and a sensitivity for a beautiful lyric sound.

In addition, each section must be synchronized and coordinated into s more musically expressive whole. When a cohcert by this organization rises above routine "good" performance, as was the case recently with the presentation of the Mendelssohn Elijah, it demonstrates what dedication and involvement can accomplish, and it compensates conductor, orchestra and listeners for their efforts during the whole season.

Regarding choral embellishments and augmentation in works that require same, the large orchestras mainly draw upon the choral groups in the universities. Here, on the Peninsula, we are fortunate to have the Monterey Peninsula Choral Society, composed of men and women deeply interested in the choral art. This organization could become an important adjunct of the orchestra with sufficient training, experience and organization. This was also shown very effectively in the Elijah.

Small orchestras furnish a definite need for the musical aspiration of its personnel, for increasing the awareness and musical reaction of its audiences, and for furnishing a reservoir of replacement of older, retired musicians in the larger orchestras. Furthermore, recorded versions of the works performed do not furnish a competitive reference, but merely offer an addendum of additional enjoyment after a live performance.

Small orchestras serve a very useful function in the musical life of the country at large, and most definitely cannot and must not be eliminated from the musical scene, as was recently advocated by a former conductor.

Orchestral Workshop Saturday

Maestro Haymo Taeuber, conductor and music director of the Monterey County Symphony Orchestra, will hold auditions for the Symphony Orchestral Workshop for Youth, Saturday at 10 a.m. at Monterey Peninsula College's Music Hall.

Serious music students of orchestral instruments who are of high school and college age, are welcome to audition. String players are especially needed.

The Workshop will be held June 14-26 at the college under the direction of Maestro Taeuber, with clinics for various instruments supervised by orchestra members who are accredited teachers. A sectional rehearsal and a full rehearsal will be held each day of the Workshop.

The Workshop, sponsored by the Symphony Association and partially funded by the Jazz Festival and the Bing Crosby Foundation for Youth, is given without charge.

For further information call 624-4125, the symphony office, or 624-1942, Mrs. J. Reeves.

'Man of La Mancha' returns for 25 performances

Returning to the Monterey Peninsula by request is Dale Wasserman's play, "Man of La Mancha." Directed by Michael Keller, the production will be performed at the Circle Theater in Carmel as a presentation of the Community Theater of the Monterey Peninsula.

Earlier in the year the play ran for 20 performances and was a complete sell-out. The summer production will run from June 18 through July 24 for a total of 25 evenings only. Advanced reservations are strongly recommended.

The cast is backed by an eight-piece or hestra including flamenco guitars, piano, flute, bass, trumpet and drums. The intimacy of the Circle Theatre and the enclosing prison walls put the audience alongside Don Quixote as he fights his way past windmills to reach "the impossible dream."

Reservations for all performances may be made now by calling the theatre box office at 624-2669.

An unusual theatre event

BY FRANK H. RILEY, MANAGER SUNSET CENTER

ON FRIDAY AND SATURDAY you will be treated to a most unusual theatre event. In any place this production which deals with the life and works of Robert Louis Stevenson would be interesting; but because of the intimate local association with the famous author, the play takes on an almost personal interest for residents of the Peninsula. Stevenson's arrival in Monterey was at the behest of his beloved "Fanny." The house in which he occupied a room for four months in 1879 still stands at 530 Houston Street but the story begins three years earlier.

The young author and Fanny had met in France during the summer of 1876. She was ten years his senior and married, although unhappily, to a Californian, Samuel Osbourne. Three years later the tall, gaunt Scotsman received a letter from Fanny asking him to come to Monterey. Facing disinheritance by his family, the disapproval of his friends and the destruction of his health, Stevenson, poor, unknown and frail in health, made the most important decision of his life.

"No man is of any use until he has dared everything. I feel just now as if I had, and so might become a man." With these words, Robert Louis Stevenson left his native Scotland on a 6,000 mile pilgrimage to be with the woman he loved, Fanny Osbourne, who, a few months later, became his wife. It was on the Monterey Peninsula that Stevenson spent the most important four months of his life. This was the turning point of Robert Louis Stevenson's career, not only as a writer, but as an independent man. Robert Louis Stevenson occupied a two-floor room during the autumn of 1879. It was here that he wrote his most famous poem, "Requiem."

THIS AND OTHER ASPECTS of Stevenson's life are now brought back to life by Dohn Shaw and his Robert Louis Stevenson Repertory Theatre who play at Sunset Center Theatre for two nights, Friday and Saturday, June 11 and 12.

The director, Dohn Shaw, who has studied the life and works of Robert Louis Stevenson for 15 years, now brings his adaptation of the Stevenson story through his repertory theatre. Shaw will play the role of Robert Louis Stevenson, a specialty of his. Shaw re-enacts Stevenson as sometimes bitter, happy, outrageous and humorous. He tells his life story from childhood to his death (December 3, 1894).

The players re-enact such classics as Treasure Island, Kidnapped, Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde, Sire of Maletroit's Door, Bottle Imp, Body Snatchers, The Dynamiter, Prince Otto and his unforgotten fables. The combination of poetry, characters, comedy, horror and drama are used to create an evening of unusual theatre.

JUST BEFORE the death of Robert Louis Stevenson, he was talking excitedly with his wife about a possible lecture tour on his life and writings in the United States, but he died that same evening. Shaw now takes over where Stevenson left off. Shaw brings Robert Louis Stevenson alive again through himself.

Curtain time is 8:30 p.m. each evening. Special rates are available for students and military personnel.

Swimming lessons for pre-schoolers

Registration for pre-school swimming classes at the Carmel High School and Carmel Valley Community Center pools will be held Saturday from 1 to 4 p.m. at both pools.

Parents must bring interested students to the respective pools as there is a minimum height requirement. There is a $4 registration fee.

The half-hour classes, held weekdays at 11:30 will be scheduled in four two-week sessions: June 21-July 2; July 6-July 16; July 19-July 30; Aug. 2-Aug. 13.

The Pride of Merrie Ol' England

The antiquity of London is impressive; for "The City," as it is also called, is more than two thousand years old. It was a British settlement when Julius Caesar landed near the Dover Cliffs; it heard the trumpets of the Roman legions, and the Emperor Claudius tried to rob it of its name. Its lovely inns, bearing out this history, contain things from Iceland to Molokai. Old Carved wood and gleaming brass—an ancient Chinese rug—brocades so fine that it would seem they were woven by the pixies. Against this background, the mixture of people from all over the world seems right and fitting.

So too, our California has this beautiful blending of people from every country—they give us the charm of antiquity, the atmosphere that makes every new visitor or "permanent party" feel at home. We welcome all of you!

See you soon.

Bob Jones and Bill Stone to play leads at Studio

The lead roles of Finch and Biggley in "How To Succeed In Business Without Really Trying," opening Friday at the Stuido Theatre-Restaurant, will be played by Robert D. Jones and William F. Stone, jr.

Jones was in "Cat On A Hot Tin Roof," "Oklahoma!" and "The Public Eye" for the Little Theater of the Naval Postgraduate School where he recently received his M.S. in Oceanography.

Stone, popular art teacher at Carmel High School, participated in "Carnival" and "Dracula" there and did the production design of "Carousel" which played at Sunset a short time ago.

In the role of Frump which brought fame to Charles Nelson Reilly in the Broadway production is Michael Byrne, formerly a drama major at St. Mary's University, San Antonio, and now a recreation specialist at D.L.I.

Claudia Landon, playing Rosemary, has studied voice with Nancy Ness Bowman and acting with Marcia Hovick. She has been in "Anything Goes" and "Life With Father" at the Circle.

Sherry Steffens as the sultry Hedy draws on professional experience on the Red Skelton and Steve Allen shows, following four years in productions at U.C. Berkeley and UCLA.

The rest of the cast includes such mainstays of the local theatre as Betty Hughes ("The Women"), J.C. Hale ("Guys And Dolls"), John Sullivan ("There's A Girl In My Soup"), and Pete Hanson ("Sweet Charity"). Others in supporting roles are Karen Bevelander, Susan Claypool, Cheryl-Ann Cox, Judy Lozen, Elaine O'Connell, Buz Childers, Mark Thompson and Scott Wood.

To the accompaniment of a Frank Loesser score, the Abe Burrows script adapted from Shepherd Mead's novel of the same name tells the story of Finch's rapid rise from the mail room to the executive suite of J.B. Biggley's World Wide Wicket Company in the face of some nasty curves thrown his way by rival Frump. One sinister ploy is to entice him with Hedy which nearly breaks up his romance with Rosemary.

Under the direction of Bill Asp, "How To Succeed" will play Friday, Saturday and Sunday nights for the next two weekends, after which it will run nightly except Monday and Tuesday through July 24. Reservations for all performances may be made at 624-1661 or 624-2321.

MONTEREY TOUR

Walking tours of Monterey's historic adobes, a highlight and popular feature of the Bicentennial year, will be continued this summer by California Heritage Guides.

The tours for Peninsula residents will begin this and the following Sunday at 2 p.m. from three vantage points: Colton Hall, Custom House Plaza, and Jules Simoneau Plaza. Except for a 25-cent fee for adults to enter State Historical buildings, there will be no charge as guides are inviting local residents to join them in the final phase of their training program.

Symphony Guild to hold sale and silent auction

"Things of Note", a sale and silent auction, is being held at Sunset Center, San Carlos and 9th, Carmel on Saturday from 11 to 4 o'clock.

It is sponsored by the Monterey County Symphony Guild as a benefit for the Monterey County Symphony Orchestra.

A great variety of items have been donated for the event including a handsome desk, crystal chandelier, Chinese screen, lovely lamps, several original paintings, wood block by Alexander Weygers, sterling flatware for eight in "Chippendale" pattern by Towle, linens, crystal, stoneware, pewter, old silver, old Japanese lacquer, Chippendale chairs, a gorgeous Spanish shawl, Chinese bowl, plants and beautiful handmade items.

One of the most interesting items is some ancient mummy beads.

Committee members working hard on this event are: Mrs. James E. Henderson, chairman, Mrs. Thomas A. Kenan, Mrs. Edgar Gallwey, Mrs. George C. Fortune, Mrs. Roderick L. Dewar, Mrs. C. Malcolm Stratton, Mrs. Carl Menneken.

Donation is $1.00.

Taueber at Seattle conference

Symphony conductor Haymo Taeuber is attending the 26th Annual Conference of the American Symphony Orchestra League in Seattle, Washington June 8 to 11, accompanied by James Glaser, past president and member of the board of Monterey County Symphony. Glaser is also an officer of the Association of California Symphony Orchestras.

The Monterey County Symphony Orchestra is a member of the American Symphony Orchestra League and the Association of California Symphony Orchestras. It is one of 24 orchestras in the United States and Canada with "Urban" listing. This classification covers symphony orchestras whose total gross expenditure for the last completed fiscal year were between $50,000 and $100,000. The next classification is that of "Metropolitan" orchestra, from $100,000 to $500,000, and the highest is that of the "Major" orchestras, whose budgets are in excess of $500,000.

Of the 30 "Major" orchestras, California has two, San Francisco and Los Angeles. There are 68 "Metropolitan" orchestras, and six of these are in California: Fresno, Glendale, Oakland, Pasadena, San Diego and Sacramento.

ROBERT HEATER

GERTRUDE CHAPPELL

'Plaza Suite' stars view local theatre

Gertrude Chappell and Robert Heater, stars of the smash success Neil Simon comedy, "Plaza Suite," which recently played at Carmel's Studio Theatre, took a few moments backstage after a recent performance to discuss this play and local theatre in general.

"Simon is a gorgeous writer," offered Mrs. Chappell, who has long been a favorite of Peninsula audiences for her roles in "A Lion in Winter," (which won her a Golden Bough award as best actress last year), "The Little Foxes," "Death of a Salesman," and "Barefoot in the Park," among many others.

"It's a delightful play, but also a challenge," she continued. "Comedy is much harder than drama but I like doing it.

"In drama, you submerge yourself and exclude the audience; it's easier to concentrate. In comedy, you have to keep one ear out there and time your laughs."

Mrs. Chappell and Mr. Heater have appeared together in two previous productions playing husband and wife. They starred in "Waltz of the Toreadors" and "The Subject' was Roses."

In off-stage life, Mr. Heater is a manufacturer's representative for Bronzini, Lt., a maker of men's after shaves and colognes, and he has substituted "Bronzini" for a line referring to men's cologne in "Plaza Suite."

Mr. Heater has a background in both academic and professional theatre, having taught drama at several universities as well as acting on Broadway, Hollywood and television.

"I have no desire to get into professional acting again except here," he says. "And I have no desire to leave Carmel. If I were offered a role I really wanted to do, I'd go." Heater has lived in Carmel for five years, and comments, "Unfortunately, I'm finding Carmel more and more what I escaped from when I first moved here," referring to commercialism and congestion.

After a professional career, he is generous toward little theatre.

"You roll with the punches. Sometimes there's limited talent both on stage and back stage—oh, not Bill Asp, but others..."

"We didn't have a bed for 'Plaza Suite' until just before the performance," interjects Mrs. Chappell.

"And I finally put my foot down and said no bed, no play," adds Heater.

"Everyone expects us to act like prima donnas," he says, "and we don't. But we both know that they're just waiting for us to demand something."

Mr. Heater and Mrs. Chappell admit that the rewards for their tremendous outlay of time and creative energy in little theatre are "primarily one of ego—where you're not getting paid."

"It satisfies the creative urge if you're a housewife like I am," confesses Mrs. Chappell.

SECTION II

Forestry commission lauds outgoing forester Bob Tate

"I, for one, am sorry to see you go," Forestry Commission Vice Chairman Matt Smith told village forester Robert Tate at Tuesday's monthly commission meeting.

Tate is leaving Carmel to become forester for the city of Ann Arbor, Mich. His last day with Carmel will be June 25.

"I certainly feel Carmel is a loser," said Smith, who was filling in as chairman in the absence of Raymond F. Taylor. "And Ann Arbor is a winner."

Discussing applicants for Tate's position (there are presently two), Smith said, "The city council wants us to sort of kick this around."

Tate said it would be better if his successor were found soon so Tate could fill him in on the present program, allowing it to continue smoothly.

"So, whoever you pick," Tate said, "I hope you pick him soon."

The commission scheduled an executive session for yesterday afternoon and was to forward its recommendations to the city council at its meeting last night.

In addition to his work, Smith said Tate brought to his job the "important quality" of being able to present to the public the importance of its forest to Carmel.

"I think that's very important."

"I think it's probably the second most important qualification for the job," Commissioner Hugh Smith said.

Tate reported to the commission that the tree survey should be completed within two weeks.

"Do you think you'll have it finished before you leave?" Matt Smith asked.

"Oh, yes. No problem," said Tate.

Tate also reported that because of a heavy oak moth population this year, he was glad spraying had started early. Sampling for the moths began in February, spraying in April.

Tate said that while oak moths will not kill a tree with one defoliation, a number of defoliations will sap a tree of its vigor and leave it susceptible to disease. Besides, he said, oaks are raised in Carmel for beauty and with defoliation they lose any beauty.

Council acts on accepting Doolittle property deed

The City Council was expected to accept the deed and complete the purchase of the 17.65-acre Doolittle property at the northeast edge of the present city limits at last night's regular monthly meeting.

The land will cost the city $120,000 and will be kept as permanent open space. Some recreational use for the land, which has been sought by developers for many years, is planned.

William Doolittle, the owner of the property, has donated one-third of the acreage as an outright gift to the city.

The land will be paid for out of the city's greenbelt fund, which has stood idle for some time and now totals approximately $250,000. The fund is supported by the five percent hostelry tax, which gathers some $16,000 every month from motel tax revenues.

Doolittle, a memember of the Sierra Club, the Wilderness Society, and the Save the Redwoods League, has sought certain restrictions for the use of the property.

Among the conditions are those permitting "no more than three tennis courts; restrooms will be allowed, but they must be partially hidden from view; installation of up to 10 picnic tables; and no open fires will be allowed."

GOP women to meet at La Playa

A general meeting of the Carmel Republican Women's Club will be held next Thursday at the La Playa Hotel. There will be a social hour beginning at 11:30 a.m. followed by a luncheon at 12:30.

Reservations may be made before Tuesday by calling Virginia Stoneson at 624-2941 or Mrs. C.W. Fisher at 624-6615 or 624-7409. The luncheon is $3.

The highlight of the meeting will be guest speaker Donald E. Thomas, former deputy district attorney, who will speak on "The Changing Attitudes of Punishment in the Courts." A question-and-answer period will follow.

For those who do not have transportation available, arrangements may be made by calling Edith Leach at 624-6672.

The conscience of Carmel:

The 38 steps to annexation

BY GUNNAR NORBERG

HAVE YOU WONDERED, if you are newly come, why the City of Carmel is so small (less than a square mile) while the area generally known by the name of Carmel is several times the City's size?

And, if you have been troubled by the threat of new high-density commercial and residential developments at the entrance to the Carmel Valley or near the Carmel river, have you wondered why all the thousands of deeply concerned residents (outside the actual City of Carmel) have continued for so long to be willing to allow planning and zoning decisions to be made for them at a considerable distance—over in the county courthouse in Salinas by a Board of Supervisors, only one of whom has had any specific responsibility to the Carmel area electorate?

These questions have, of course, also occurred to many people who have lived in the Carmel area (but outside the City of Carmel) for a great many years.

The reson why the questions continue to be asked by newcomers, and the reason why some old-timers have wearied after making vain attempts to solve the problem the questions suggest, is that efforts to annex to the City of Carmel have, again and again, been frustrated. Why?

Because the state's basic annexation law—usually called the Annexation Act of 1913—provides a series of legal hurdles which annexation proponents must surmount before "inhabited territory" (the sort we have here) can be annexed to an adjacent city.

And the primary intent of that law seems to be to discourage annexation, rather than to encourage it. From time to time—as also at present—bills are introduced in the state legislature to simplify and ease annexation procedures, but—so far—there has been little real accomplishment in the effort to achieve this.

Again, you may ask, why?

IN THE YEARS since the end of World War II, large urbanized unincorporated areas have been developed, often just outside the boundary of already existing cities. Developers have often pointed to the absence of city taxes in these areas, while urging potential purchasers to settle there. So, increasingly, county boards of supervisors—which were originally organized simply to govern rural areas—have had to assume city-type duties, sometimes in widely separated and enormously varied subdivisions in their respective counties—often to the distress of residents as now in the large unincorporated area outside of the City of Carmel.

But, you persist, do we now have to be stopped from trying annexation just because other people, in the past, have tried and failed: Of course not.

You can go to the Carmel City Hall to ask what to do to start an annexation effort, and you will be handed long sheets which tell you what has to be done. There are 38 numbered items on the sheets and they tell you what the 38 legal steps which can lead to annexation usually are.

At the head of the first sheet—before you start looking at the 38 legal steps—you are given this caution:

"...No effort has been made to include a detailed breakdown of all the hazards and pitfalls as each particular proposed annexation will have to be independently evaluated..."

Encouraging, isn't it?

FIRST OF ALL, the annexation has to start in the outside-of-the-cityarea itself. Then the city—in this case, the City of Carmel—has to be willing to consider annexation. Some ten or fifteen years ago, this was an "iffy" proposition. Sometimes Carmel City Councils were ready to consider annexation; at other times, not.

Eventually, some six or seven years ago, when the last substantial effort was made to achieve annexation all around the perimenter of the City of Carmel, the Carmel City Council expressed itself as unanimously in favor of annexation. But, even so, the effort failed. Why?

Because of those impediments to annexation which are built into that Annexation Act of 1913.

In step No. 11 in the 38-stage annexation procedure, outlined on those long sheets you can get at the Carmel City Call, there is a provision that "...at least one-fourth of the registered voters living within the territory proposed to be annexed..." must sign the petition which asks the City of Carmel to set up an annexation election.

Generally speaking it takes less than "one-fourth of the registered voters" to elect people to the Carmel City Council. This is because, usually, one half—or less—of the registered voters even bother to vote in a municipal election—and thus, with a number of candidates filing for a certain city council vacancy, often less than a fourth of the registered voters actually decide the outcome of such an election, since only a plurality of the vote is required to elect.

And just what, you wonder, does all this mean?

Simply that just as many—or even more than that many—signatures are required on an annexation petition not to make a final electoral decision (as in the case of filling a city council vacancy) but just merely to start to set up annexation elections!

After the successful petitioning by that one-fourth of the whole electorate in an area seeking annexation, the City Council then can act to declare its "intention to call a special election" to decide whether, in actual fact, those "outsiders" do really want to vote themselves into the City of Carmel. Then, while delcaring its "intention to call" that "special election," the City Council at the same time must set up and publicize "...a hearing on protests..." And not only that, but the City Council must order its City Clerk "...to mail written notices to each owner of equitable or legal interest in land within the territory to be annexed..." according to specified standards. Then the law provides that "...written protests to a proposed annexation may be filed by owners...not later than the hour set for the hearing" on protests.

Then—to give maximum effect to protests—the law provides that "...if protests are filed by the owners of more than one-half of the value of the territory (land only) proposed to be annexed, the proceedings shall terminate."

"Land only" in this context, means that the value only of the land involved is governings. Many times, in the kind of "inhabited" areas there are around Carmel, the "improvements" (meaning the buildings on the property) are worth far more than the land on which they are situated—but their worth is no part of the measure by which valuation of a particular annexation-desirous area, is to be checked. (This procedure by the way, is described in step No. 21 in that 38-item annexation agenda!)

IF ANY ANNEXATION effort in the Carmel environs—outside the City of Carmel—had reached this point in the formidable annexation marathon, this is the one at which it would most likely have reached its ultimate dead-end. (During my own City Council terms, I do not recall that any substantial annexation effort even reached this 21st step in the 38-step procedure. Certain tiny annexation efforts did reach, and pass, this point, and ultimately achieved the actual annexation being sought, but they added only a few lots or, at most, a few block to the City of Carmel!)

Readers familiar with current annexation procedures, may wonder here why I haven't said anything about the Local Agencies Formation Commission, which meets once a month in the courthouse ih Salinas, and which initially decides whether any annexation effort can even start through that long annexation prOcess, I've just talked about.

In the case of the ubanized areas outside the City of Carmel, there is little reason to present the Local Agenices Commission as any sort of hurdle to surmount. For many years, not only this Commission but also the members of the County Board of Supervisors, have informally suggested that these outside-of-Carmel areas about which I've been talking, should properly be a part of the City of Carmel. (They are not within the three-mile "zone of influence" of any other existing municipality).

WHILE THE ADDITION of a city tax to the other property taxes which home owners pay has had a deterrent effect on past annexation attempts, this factor may be a gradually vanishing one.

Just now home owners outside Carmel's City limits are finding that the cost of their insurance policies are rising steeply and that annexation to the City of Carmel could significantly slow or reverse that trend.

Also, the size of the taxes which the County Board of Supervisors is beginning to set, in what are called "county service areas," for special city-type services the county is providing, is starting to make some outside-of-the-City-of-Carmel homeowners begin to question seriously the tax advantage of being out in the unincorporated area.

At present the tax rate in the City of Carmel is $1.25 per $100 of assessed valuation and it has been pegged at about that rate for a good many years. Meanwhile, in the Carmel Highlands, for example, just the cost of fire protection is now at the rate of $1.14—or, nearly as much as the whole City of Carmel rate. In fact, there is one "county service area" in the upper Carmel Valley where the service area tax, along with tie fire district tax, totals a fraction more than $1.49—or, actually, over 24 cents more than the present City of Carmel rate for all city services! Just now there is talk in the mid-Carmel Valley of setting up a fire district there—with a likely tax rate of $1.00 merely for that fire protection, without any other city-type services!

SOME SIX OR SEVEN YEARS AGO, the Carmel City Council found, after considerable study, that it could provide essentially the services now provided inside the City of Carmel with little or no increase in personnel or equipment to the entire area from Carmel Woods to the Carmel River, west of State Highway 1. Thus, for that portion of the Carmel area, the city tax rate would certainly have been no higher than it then was within the City of Carmel itself. (Meanwhile the City of Carmel was providing free fire protection to Carmel area schools, all of which were outside city limits, simply as a humane service).

Many people have felt in the past, and feel today, that piece-meal efforts to annex can only be futile because of the built-in legal impediments to annexation, and that, therefore, a very large area—perhaps from Jack's Peak to the Highlands, and at least as far as the Carmel Middle School, should be tried at one time, if there were to be substantial numbers—as I believe there are now—who might welcome such an effort.

My own view—as I explained in detail in the March 4th issue of the Pine Cone—is that a special act of the state legislature to set up here what I called a "heritage city" would be the best solution to the establishment in the entire Carmel River watershed area of a single effective community unit.

Meanwhile, however, a massive local annexation effort could, just possibly, meet with success in today's community climate. It might be worth a real try.

Hudson threatens grand jury probe of Sanitary District

It was another night of the Carmel Sanitary District vs. Tom Hudson of Point Lobos at Tuesday evening's regular monthly meeting of the board, but this time louder than usual.

Hudson, whose suit against the district to stop construction of a 600-foot ocean outfall line was dismissed Monday in Salinas Superior Court, told district directors that he was going to refile the suit.

Also, after angrily stating, "You've been polluting our property at Point Lobos and you've damaged the (Point Lobos) state reserve, and I'm not going to put up with this," he threatened to submit the matter and the district to a grand jury investigation.

As is usual with these district board-Hudson clashes, there are moments of turbulence and then times of calm, then turbulence, calm, and so on. After an outburst, Hudson might sit down, grin sheepishly, perhaps, while board members shake their heads, some angrily, some somberly, and then something comes up on the agenda and boom! there it is again.

For instance, it seemed like all of the fireworks had been shot off for the evening and the board was concerning itself with a routine matter having to do with a letter.

"Mr. Chairman," Hudson said, "would you mind letting the public in on this letterhead you're discussing?"

Director Hank Fonseca turned in his chair and said: "This continuing harassment about a letterhead is childish, Tom, and you know it!"

Fonseca told Hudson that he (Hudson) would never have tolerated such harassment when he was chairman of the county board of supervisors while Hudson said that as chairman he never interrupted a speaker on the floor. This went on for a little bit and then died down.

Hudson first commented when Shelburn Robison, the attorney for the district, was informing the board of a title report that is to be sent to the Environmental Protection Agency, a federal agency which Hudson has formally requested to hold a public hearing before releasing funds for the district's new plant.

Hudson asked if the title report was also being sent to a state environmental protection agency. A few minutes after he was told there was probably no such body under that title, that he might be thinking of the State Water Resources Control Board, Hudson said that there was a state environmental protection agency, that it had been formed during the last legislature and that its director told Hudson he didn't have a record of having received any word from the district on its new outfall line.

When Hudson said he wished to discuss the suit, which claimed effluent from the new outfall will damage his family's property near Point Lobos and the reserve, District President Harold C. Arnot said he couldn't see any reason for it.

Fonseca said he didn't see why Hudson shouldn't speak on it, that Hudson was always saying he represented concerned taxpayers and maybe he would name some.

Hudson named one person, but Fonseca said that person was one of Hudson's law partners and would he name some others. Hudson said that he wouldn't, that they might not want their names divulged in public.

Hudson said that he was refiling the suit for two reasons: one, that Superior Court Judge Stanley Lawson had said, during the demur hearing on the suit, that Hudson hadn't gone through the appellate process to the State Water Resources Control Board with his complaint before taking it to Superior Court. Hudson said this was a ruling against him through a technicality, that a year ago he had appealed to the board but that he had not mentioned it in his court suit.

And, two, that the district had said he hadn't filed an amended complaint, which he had.

After Harold Tennant, Kennedy Engineers resident engineer for the plant and outfall line projects, informed the board of the status of both projects, Hudson said that people were concerned about the affects the work might have on the bird sanctuary near the mouth of the Carmel River.

"I've been over there, Tom," Arnot said. "I think you're talking through your hat."

Hudson asked if the district was going to continue with the project without Environmental Protection Agency approval.

Then started another back-and-forth. Hudson said he represented a lot of people. He was asked to name them. Arnot said: "I think you will sit down." Hudson said he wouldn't, that he had something to say. Arnot: "Then say it sitting down." Hudson said he wouldn't. Some more conversation.

"You're not saying anything you haven't said before," Arnot said, "We will conserve the public's money to the best of our ability."

In other action:

The board adopted an ordinance which will become effective July 1, setting the sewer connection cost for single family dwellings at $100. The fee also includes the cost of the house sewer installation, cost of inspection of the lateral sewer installation and the cost of wye connection.

Up to now, in Carmel, the building department provided sewer inspection for a fee while the district installed the wye for $32.

But it's only temporary:

Sewage outfall construction mess

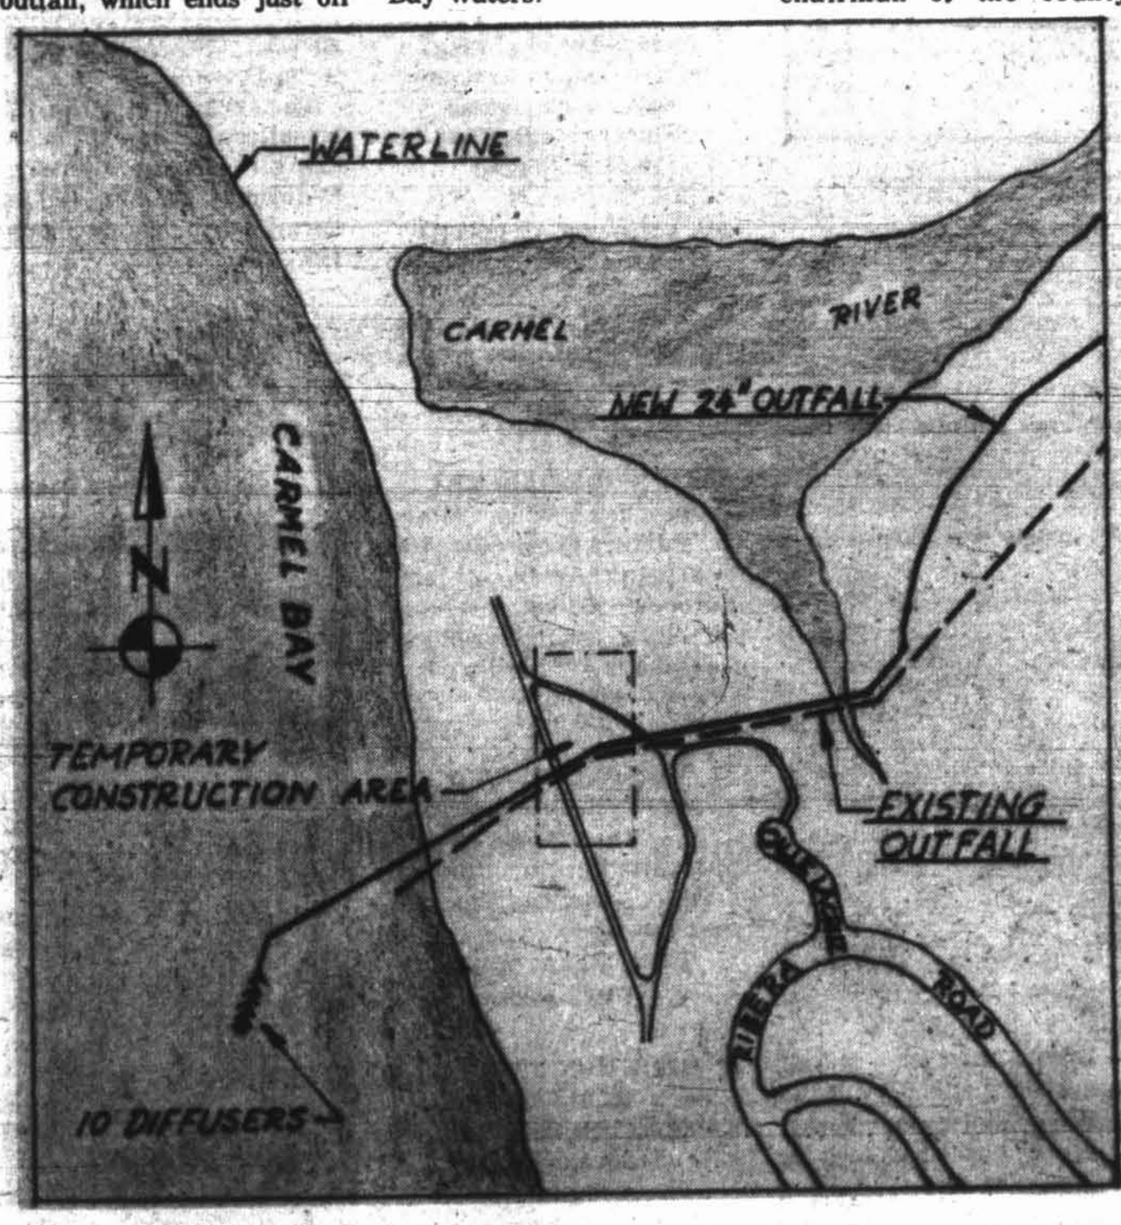
Healy-Tibbitts Construction Company of San Francisco began construction Monday of the Carmel Sanitary District's $408,400 ocean outfall line. Completion of the project is scheduled for next February.

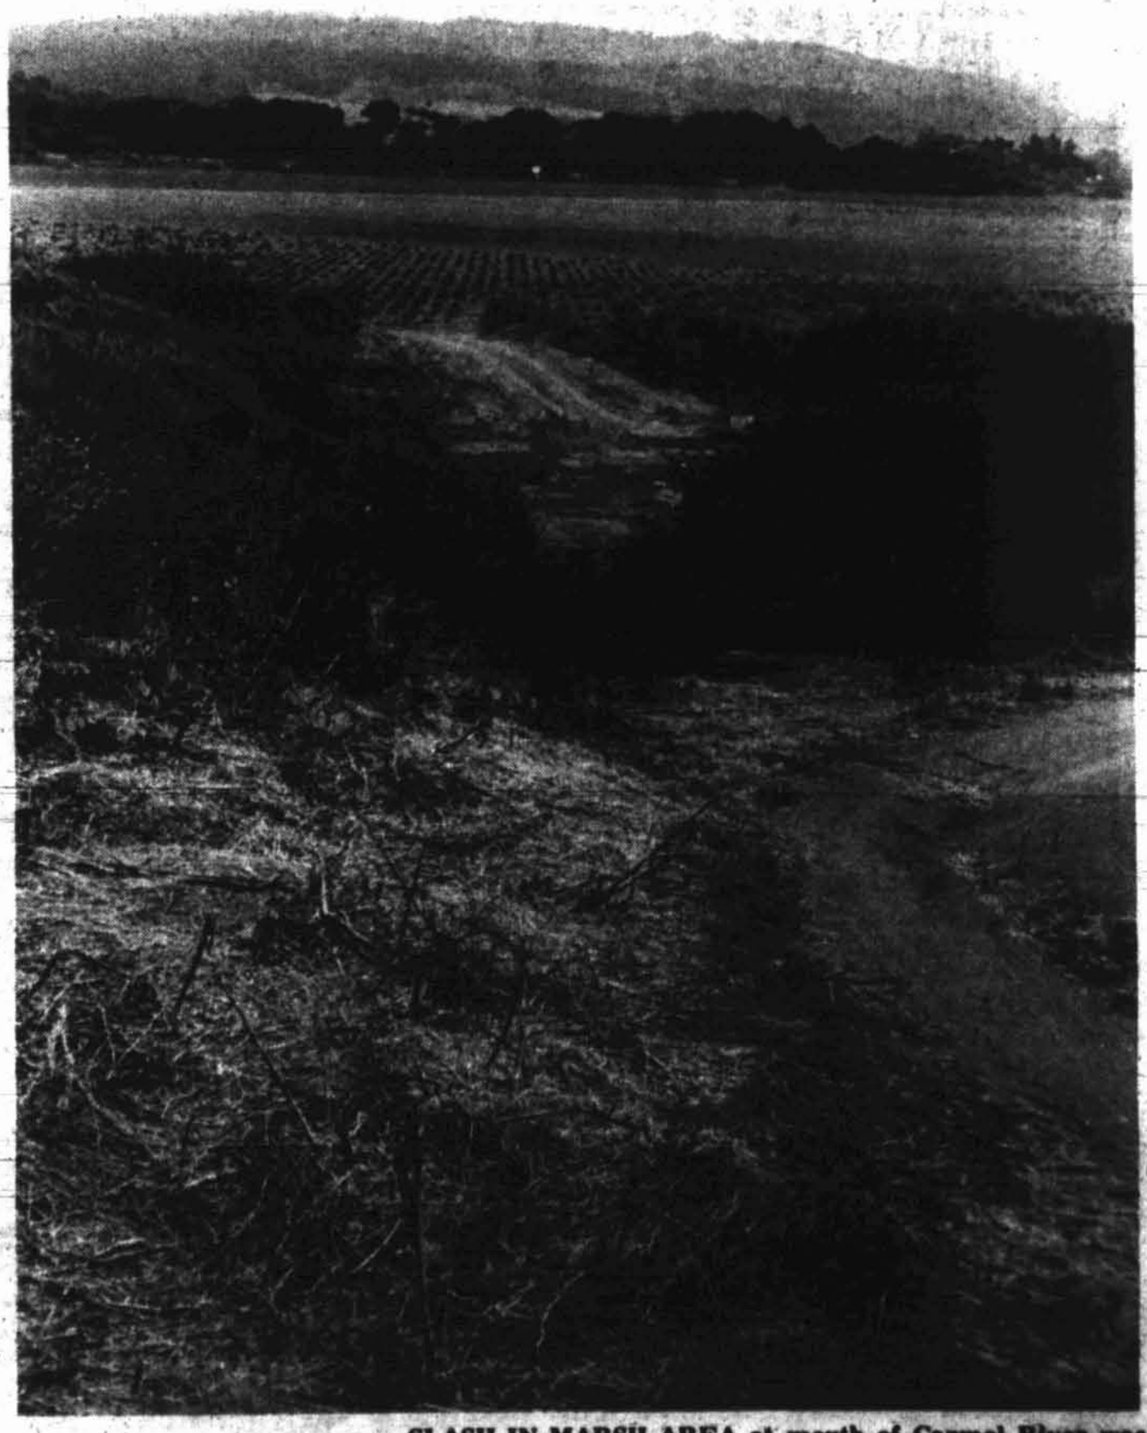
Max Drewien, general manager for the district, said that the new pipeline will include a diffuser section that will lie 600 feet offshore at a depth of 45 feet. The underwater pipeline will be encased in concrete to prevent disruption by ocean currents.

The basic function of the outfall, Drewien said, is to provide increased dilution and dispersion of effluent from the district's secondary treatment plant, which is presently under construction. The present outfall, which ends just off the beach just south of the mouth of the Carmel River, will be removed from service when the new outfall goes into operation.

Drewien said that the trestle, which is being constructed ualong the alignment of the underwater outfall, will be removed at the end of the project. Beach areas where the contractor has set up storage facilities will be restored to their original condition in accordance with State Department of Parks and Recreation requirements, Drewien said, and the protection of fish will be monitored by the State Department of Fish and Game.

Coupled with the new plant, Drewien said, the outfall will provide increased protection of Carmel Bay Waters.





SLASH IN MARSH AREA at mouth of Carmel River was made by contractor to prepare for construction of new sewage outfall line. The Sanitary District said this week that the land would be restored to its original state when construction was completed. (photo by George T.C. Smith).

Farrington, Courtright, Lim elected to Carmel Art Association

Painter Reed Farrington and sculptors Gary Courtright and Garlan Lim were elected to active membership in the Carmel Art Association at the recently-held annual spring review conducted by the association's board of directors.

The work of 15 applicants was examined by the association's review committee before Farrington, Courtright and Lim were chosen as artist members.

A former captain of the United States Army Engineers, Farrington has been on the Monterey Peninsula for five years. Upon leaving the service he seriously pursued painting composition and techniques for two years under D.W. Hardy of San Francisco.

He later moved to Carmel and continued his study through adult education art classes on the Peninsula. Terminating formal art education, he then embarked upon individual research and produced 600 oil paintings in two years' time. Farrington has exhibited at the Village Artistry Gallery and the Fireside Gallery in Carmel.

The son of an artist and originally from Seattle, Courtright says that he "cannot remember when he was not painting or drawing." After majoring in art at the University of Pacific, Courtright became acquainted with the Peninsula through Helen Dooley, well-known Carmel artist and a former professor of art at the university.

In 1965 he established his permanent studio, with sculptress wife Bernice, on a six-acre site at Green Ridge in Palo Colorado Canyon. Here Courtright produces welded sculptures and cast bronzes in a completely equipped foundry.

Lim is known primarily on the Peninsula as a painter who was originally from Canton, China. He recently turned to the sculpture of birds, fishes and such genre as fishing smacks on the Monterey wharf, groups of gulls, etc.

Lim studied at the Carmel Art Institute and has been the recipient of numerous honors for his work. He was included in the Gold Spike Album Invitational (Southern Pacific Centennial Traveling Exhibit) and has one of his paintings in the collection of former President Lyndon B. Johnson.

Artist studio-house tour June 27

Sunday, June 27, is the date for the Artist's Studio-Open House Tour, sponsored annually by the Monterey Peninsula Museum of Art Association. Tour hours are 11 a.m. to 5 p.m., with refreshments at the Museum, 559 Pacific St., 4-6 p.m.

The brochure and map of this year's tour will guide visitors to stops in Carmel Highlands, Carmel and Monterey. More than 20 major artists will exhibit works of excellence in a variety of media including photography, graphics, painting and sculpture. Many of the artists will be "in action" in their studios. In addition, art lovers will have the opportunity of viewing several rare private collections in spectacular homes of architectural significance.

Tickets ($3.50 each, $1.75 military and children) may be purchased at the Museum or at any of the Tour stops on June 27.

Artists' home-studios to be seen include those of photographer Ansel Adams, sculptress June Foster Hass, and painter May Jane Spence. Collections will be shown at the Highlands homes of the Leonard Klenes, Richard Carltons and the Luciano Tempo-Traylor Dunwoody residence in Monterey.

Four workshop-studios will be open at Carmel's Sunset Center with art-in-action at Studio VII by Barbara West, Jean Bellmer, John LaPierre and Robert Horne—at Studio XV by Barbara Johnson, with exhibits here by C.W. and Hamilton Brown—etching demonstrations at Carmel Graphics in Studio IV by Pat Carey, Virginia Conroy and Claudia Peacock and silk screening by Jane Landaker—and an exhibition by the late German photographer, Albert-Renger-Patzsch at Friends of Photography Gallery.

On Cannery Row, the Sculpture Center will feature the John Steinbeck bust by C.W. Brown, plus many works by Gordon Newell and his associates, Ralph Atkinson, Miles Bates, Bill Chaete, Jim Crane and Doyle Moses.

At Monterey High School an exciting outdoor mural measuring 10'x140' will be staffed by the student-artists who created this work under the guidance of instructor Dick Crispo.

A special bonus to the first 250 Museum Members buying Tour tickets will be the addition of the home and studio of artist Alan Parker and the home and collection of the Monte Harringtons. Due to limited access to these adjacent homes, special transportation is being provided.

The versatile Arts International Show will be on exhibit at the Monterey Peninsula Museum of Art during the "happy hour" following the tour.

Carmel Art Association auction to benefit OLAF

Twenty-one years ago, 125 paintings donated by members of the Carmel Art Association were auctioned off for $3,400.

The auction was held because at the time the ocean side of Scenic Drive around Carmel Point was being threatened with housing which would have prevented public use of the Carmel River mouth beach.

The $3,400 was matched by the state and those funds led to the purchase of what is now Carmel River State Beach.

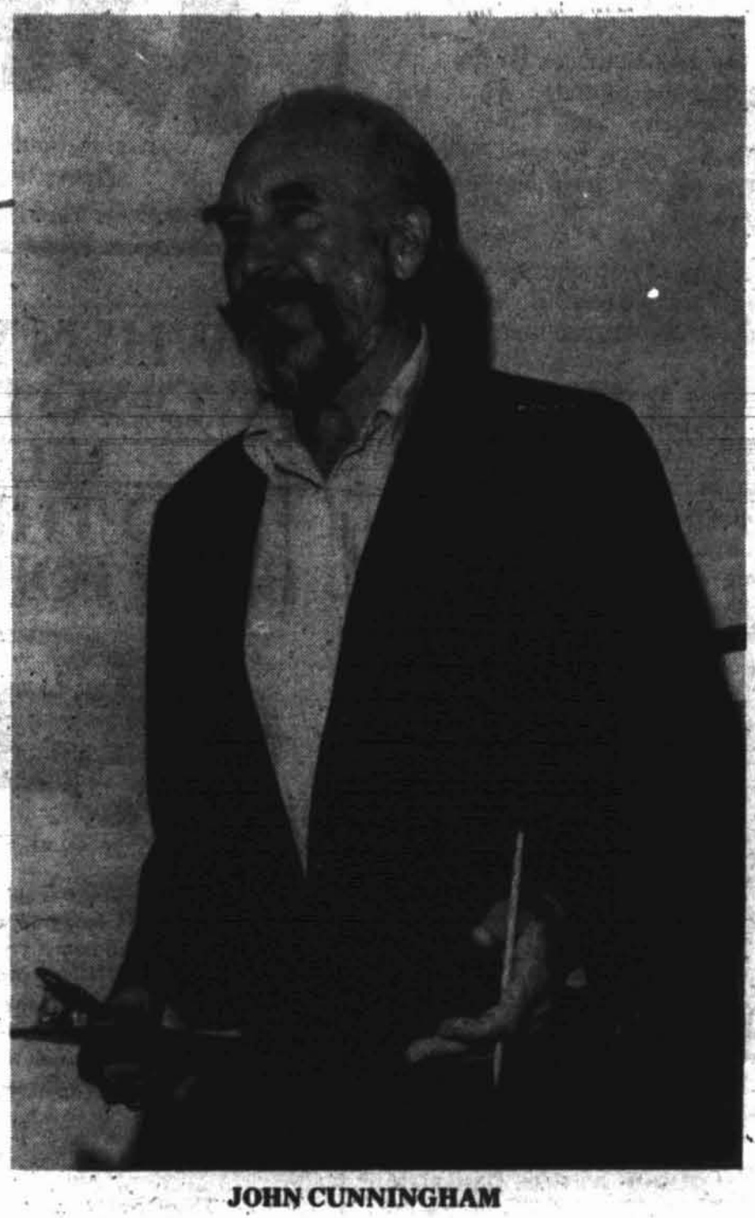
The art association committee that organized the auction was headed up by artist John Cunningham.

Today, Cunningham is chairman of an art association committee fund to acquire additional lands to the Carmel River State Park. Specifically, those lands would be the Odello artichoke ranch, property planned for high-density housing development.

As the association worked with the Point Lobos League in 1950, it intends today to work with the Odello Land Acquisition Fund (OLAF).

And, once again, this will be done through an auction.

The committee is preparing a publication picturing the works donated by association members which will be distributed by the thousands throughout the world, especially the art world, acquainting people with the reason for the auction.



JOHN CUNNINGHAM

From the photographs in the sheet, people will have the opportunity to send in bids on the paintings, which, if not topped at the actual auction, will be theirs. The bids will be accompanied by a $5 subscription toward the fund.

Although a specific date hasn't as yet been set for the auction, the committee hopes it will be held sometime early this summer.

Italic writing course to start at All Saints Day School

Mrs. Peter Farmer, internationally-known calligrapher and designer, will offer courses in Italic handwriting and silk screening at All Saints' Episcopal Day School in Carmel Valley this month.

The Italic handwriting course will run from Monday, June 14 through Tuesday, June 22, 9:30-11:30 a.m. A $30 donation covers the cost of all materials.

The silk screening course, which will concentrate exclusively on the hand-cut lacquer film method, will run from Wednesday, June 23 through Tuesday, June 29, 9:30-11:30 a.m. A donation of $20 to All Saints' Day School will be accepted for the course.

No previous knowledge of special skills is required. Both courses are open to adults and to children of junior and senior high school age.

Interested persons may register or obtain more information by calling the All Saints' Day School office at 624-9171.

Petpourri

By JUDITH A. EISNER

On Saturday we drove over the Los Laureles Grade and turned onto Route 68 heading toward Salinas. We found ourselves following a green Porsche and blinking in amazement. For sitting on a wooden perch wedged into the back of the little car was a large green parrot contentedly eating sunflower seeds out of a seed cup.

Now, one doesn't see parrots riding in Porsches every day, and this unusual sight got us to thinking about the approach of summer vacation travels and the annual problem of what to do with one's pets.

If your family is planning to go away for a prolonged vacation this year, provision must be made for the family pet or pets.

There are four solutions to choose from: to board the pet in a reputable boarding kennel or pet hospital; to have a friend or neighbor take them in; to get an in-house pet sitter to care for them; or to take them along.

Some people who have had dogs and cats for many years make it a practice to board the pet at least once a year from a very young age to accustom it to different surroundings. When the time comes for vacation each year, the dog or cat goes willingly to its temporary home and patiently awaits its master's return.

If you are boarding a young animal who has never been lodged in strange surroundings, it can be an upsetting experience. No matter how earnestly you reassure the animal that you will be back, it really cannot understand. When you leave and the cage door slams shut, every normal dog or cat feels a sense of total abandonment and uncontrollable panic.

For that reason, we feel that if you must board your pet in a strange kennel, you should investigate it thoroughly well in advance. You must be certain that the human contacts your pet will have in your absence are as comforting, loving and understanding as possible.

On the physical side, you must also be assured that your pet will be well fed, warmly and cleanly housed and safely cared for until your return.

Many veterinarians will board dogs and cats who are regular clients. Because the vet and his staff know your pet personally and are familiar with his physical condition, this is often the best choice. But don't expect to suddenly drop in to leave an animal for two weeks without advance notice. You should make a reservation well in advance of your departure date.

Private boarding kennels are often very satisfactory hotels for pets. But as the pet owner—and the recipient of a considerable boarding bill—you are entitled to inspect the premises before consigning your pet there. Many boarding kennels are scrupulously clean and genuinely interested in their charges' welfare. Others are not.

When you inspect a boarding kennel, be on the alert for signs of haphazard cage and run cleaning, smells and flies. Cages and runs should be thoroughly disinfected and hosed down twice a day.

Dogs and cats should have ample space, both indoors and out (in the form of sleeping and exercise quarters) to move about freely, and should have adequate protection from sun, wind, cold and rain.

The animals should look clean, well-fed and healthy. There should be fresh water within easy reach of all animals, and each should have its own separate kennel and run, unless two pets from one family are boarded together at the owner's request.

If you see droopy, listless animals housed in less-than-clean quarters, find dirty food pans, bad odors and lots of flies, this is no place for your pet.

Conscientious boarding kennel operators will insist that you provide proof of your pet's inoculation against feline or canine distemper and, for dogs, of current rabies vaccination. Such demands are far from unreasonable; they are made to safeguard your pet as well as others.

When you decide on a boarding place, you will want to prepare a typewritten list of your pet's diet, giving specific quantities and brand names and any supplements. Indicate the number of feedings per day.

If you have an address where you can be reached while you are away, include it. Be sure to list the name and phone number of your veterinarian to be called in case of emergency.

Most kennels supply the popular brands of dog and cat food and can easily accommodate the average pet. If your pet eats special foods that require extra preparation and expense, you will have to pay for it.

Check in advance whether you will be permitted to bring along the animal's bed and toys. Familiar objects can be a great comfort to the pet in your absence, and most kennel operators are understanding about such things.

If you have investigated the kennel beforehand and are pleased by what you have seen and by the attitude of the owner, you can drop off your pet and go off to your vacation with the assurance that everything humanly possible will be done to make your pet happy and keep him healthy in your absence.

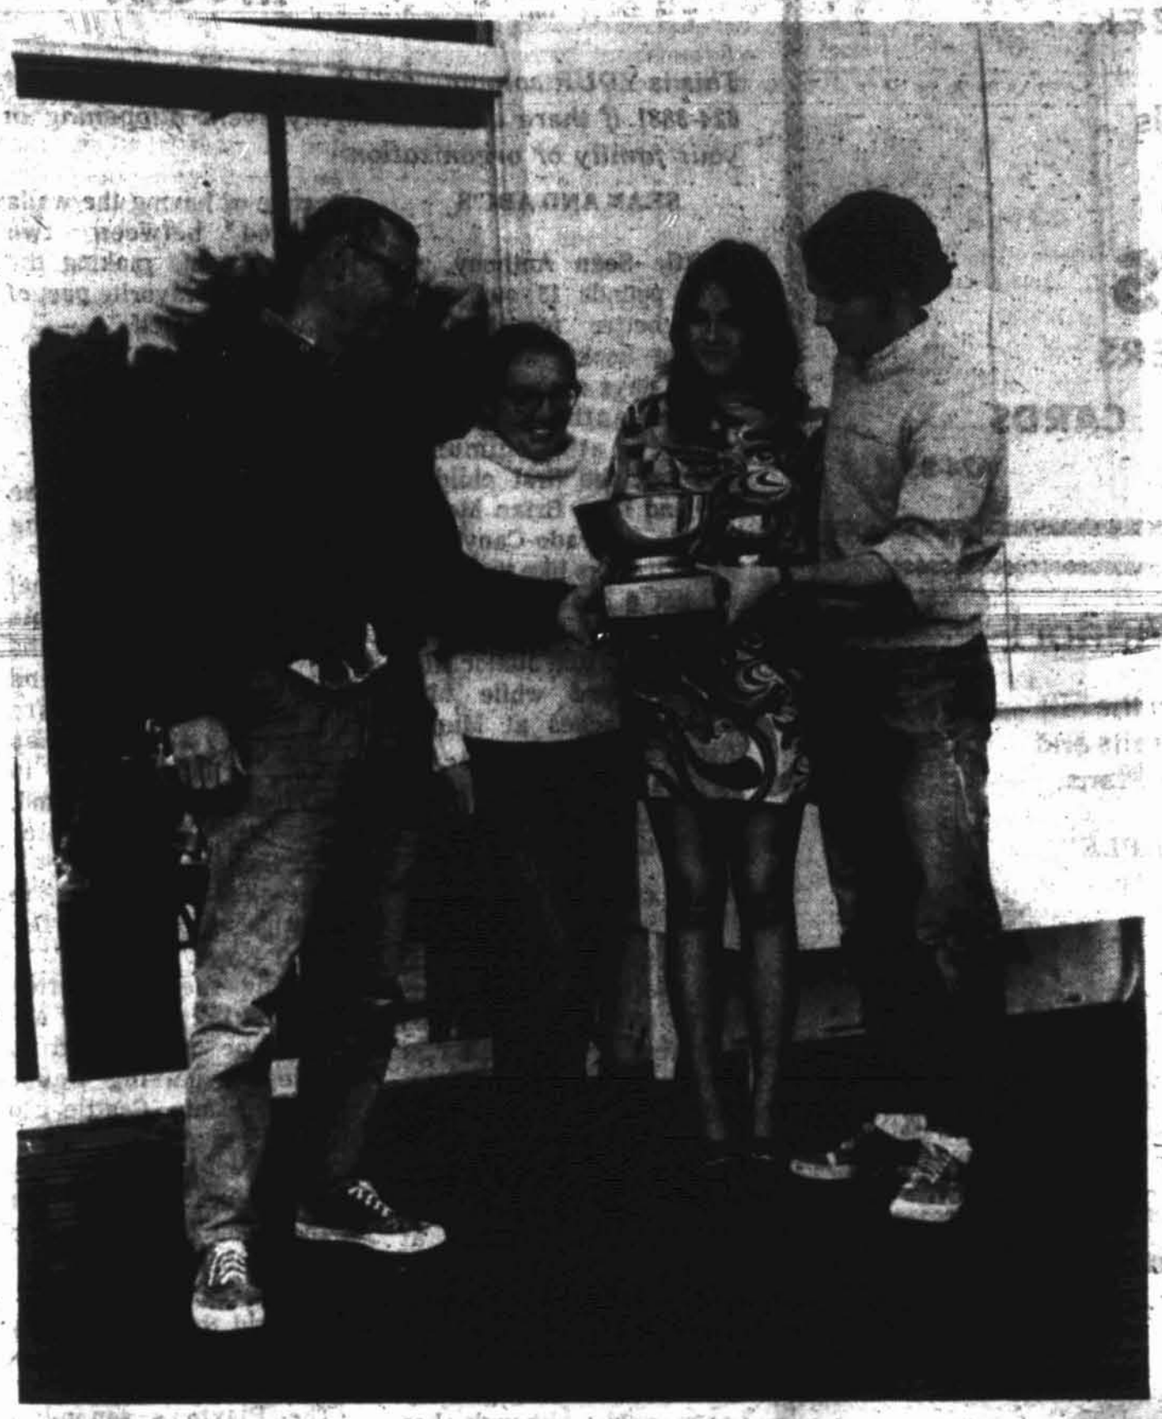
Carmelites sweep sailing honors



WINNER OF THE Haldorn Regatta, Kent Clark of Carmel with his crew mate, Margaret Hays, also of Carmel. Presenting Clark's trophy is Dailey Jones of Pasadena and Commodore Peter Muhs of the Stillwater Yacht Club.

Doug Baird, now of Fresno but raised in Carmel, returned to Pebble Beach to win the Memorial Weekend Commodore's Invitational Regatta for Mercury class sailboats. Baird, five times winner of the National Mercury races, competed against 30 others including old friends he learned to sail with as a youngster, Tim Condon and Jon Raggett.

Placing second was Mark Dowley of Richmond with Dick Clark of Pebble Beach a bare one point behind Dowley for third place.

Sailors in the Commodore were joined by Stillwater Yacht Club Mercury sailors who were completing their five-race Haldorn series which they began May 23.

Winner of the Haldorn was Kent Clark of Carmel. Clark, who sold his Mercury over 10 years ago and has essentially been idle as far as sailing goes, only began sailing again this winter when he purchased another Mercury.

Mark Raggett placed second in the Haldorn, with third place going to Stillwater Yacht Club Commodore Peter Muhs.

Twenty-six boats opened the competition Sunday, but with small craft conditions and lots of chop on the waves, only 16 finished. The afternoon races were postponed.

While the sun didn't shine Monday until just as the boats began docking, the wind didn't blow above 10.12 knots.

Monday's morning race saw the leaders breeze by the second marker. The six boats close behind collided at the marker, tangled masts; and in the ensuing confusion, the trailing boats at the end (including Commodore Muhs) passed all but the leaders by.

"I started third from last," Muhs, third place winner in the Haldorn, commented, "and ended up sixth because of the confusion."

The regattas were hard on masts, with a mast down during Sunday's morning race, the second marker tangling Monday morning, and a hooked mast between Pebble Beach's Tom McCullough (with crew member Alfred Gawthrop, president of Del Monte Properties Company) and Chipp Conlon from Redwood City. McCullough and Gawthrop placed eighth of 26 in the Monday morning race.

Council OK's restroom site on beach

The Carmel City Council at a special meeting Tuesday approved the location of a new restroom and storage facility on Carmel Beach.

The council took its action while touring the proposed site—40 feet to the north of Ocean Avenue where it ends in a parking lot. Architect James B. Pruitt was authorized to proceed with detailed plans and specifications for the facility, which will also include an enclosure for the police department's beach vehicle.

Construction of the facility will be financed with hostelry tax money.

Win an interest-free loan.

Or cash prize.

During UCB's Interest-Free Loan Sweepstakes.

To be eligible, all you have to do is fill out an entry blank at any one of our 235 offices. It's that simple – no purchase required. If you apply for a personal loan for any amount up to $10,000 and it's approved, you may win that loan interest-free. Or, if you really don't need a loan right now, you may win a cash prize equivalent to the interest on an average UCB Personal Loan with a two-year maturity. And, since there'll be one winner for every 50 personal loans approved for 3 months, there's no limit on how many people can win.

Of course, you're probably saying to yourself, "How can I apply for a loan now? With money so tight, I'd do better to wait for the economy to pick up." Well, we'd like to point out that, strange as it probably seems, just the opposite is true. Interest rates are now lower than they've been in years. While prices continue to rise. Which means that, if you borrow now, you'll actually save money in the long run.

So if you've been waiting to apply for a loan, you'd be wise not to wait any longer. Come in and talk to us today. No matter what you're in the market for – a new car, a boat, you name it – you'll find we've got a loan to suit your needs. Everything from a vacation loan that lets you wait 3 months to start repaying to a property improvement loan that finances 100% of your expense and lets you take up to 10 years to repay.

In fact, now that you know all the facts, there really is no time like the present to borrow, is there? Because even if you don't win our sweepstakes, you don't lose.

SEAN AND ABC'S

Little Sean Anthony, all eight pounds 15 ounces of him, better forget about playing hooky when those school days arrive.

Sean Anthony arrived recently at Community Hospital, the first child of Mr. and Mrs. Brian Morton of Palo Colorado Canyon.

And it looks like the infant will get a head start on his eduction. Mr. Morton is a teacher at Fitch Junior High in Fort Ord while Mrs. Morton teaches at Marina Vista School in Marina.

"He's cute," said Mrs. Morton, not concerned at all at this time about IQ.

WELCOME WILLIAM!

New Carmelites Mr. and Mrs. Norton Leger of Carpenter and Fifth welcomed their first child recently at Community Hospital, William Thomas, all eight pounds and eight ounces of him.

Mr. Leger is a management trainee at Longs Drugs. Mrs. Leger for seven years was a teacher of multiply-handicapped children in Los Angeles.

"We love it here," Mrs. Leger said. Although Los Angeles friends ask when the Legers plan to visit their old home, Mrs. Leger says she doesn't think that will happen until William Thomas is old enough to appreciate Disneyland.

LOVE THOSE TRAINS

Lee Roy and Sheila Hess are train buffs—furious at Railpax, of course! But they are having a part-railroad vacation anyhow. They are driving to Seattle, where they'll leave their car for the return trip. There they board a Pullman for Minneapolis, following their favorite practice of having the walls removed between two bedrooms—and making the luxury trip a favorite part of the vacation itself.

PLAXTON GETS JOB AS 'BABY SITTER'

Art Plaxton must be recalling his bootlegging days.

Plaxton, a Carmel original for 14 years until his retirement last year as the village's finance officer, and his wife, Dorothy, are "babysitting a house on San Juan Island" in Washington's Puget Sound, says City Administrator Hugh Bayless.

The house belongs to Dorothy's brother, Dr. Robert Rowe.

During the Prhoibition years, Plaxton, has admitted, he was forced to bootleg, receiving liquor smuggled into Seattle, to feed his hungry family.

A sure sign that the city council was on the verge of spending more than it had used to be the sound of Plaxton clearing his throat. Art would then very kindly direct the council's attention to the realities of the dollar.

The Plaxton's son-in-law and daughter, Don and Betty Plaxton, are Carmelites.

STANFORD GRADUATE

Peter Chesebrough, husband of the former Kathleen Mapstead of Carmel, and son-in-law of the Raymond Mapsteads, graduates from Stanford next Wednesday, with a double major in electronics and psychology. He is a graduate of Robert Louis Stevenson School. The seven years between that school and Stanford Peter spent on a Navy nuclear submarine. His grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Fertig, formerly of Carmel Valley.

Kathy, a graduate of Carmel High School, has also been attending college as well as working in a yarn shop in Santa Cruz. The couple have bought a home in Ben Lomond, but will settle in only after a post-graduation eight-week tour of the United States.

The Mapsteads also have bought a home in the same area, in Felton, planning to spend about equal time there and in Carmel.

Noel Mapstead will be off for Portland, Bishop—he is an ardent Sierra Club member—and Canada, when his year at Monterey Peninsula College is up. He hopes to return to Switzerland in the Fall.

DAVISES RETURN

Bill and Grace Davis returned recently from two weeks in England. Paul, age two, was glad to welcome back his parents.

FREMIERS' TAKE-OFF

Roger and Allene Fremier, with Andrew and Allen, will set forth for summer in Europe next week. Roger says this "long, great summer is one of the joys of teaching."

ROUND-TRIP, U.S.A.

Mrs. John W. Sewall is about to start a 7,000-mile criss-cross tour of America with her grandson, John Sewall Haines, son of Mrs. Jackie Haines.

"This is the fourth trip like this I'll have made with a grandchild, but this is the only boy," revealed Mrs. Sewall. "To me, a child with his fresh viewpoint is the best traveling companion there is."

Carlsbad Caverns will highlight the Southwest leg of the journey. John is particularly looking forward to a stop, his second, at t

Air Force Academy in Colorado Springs, which he hopes someday to attend. His late grandfather, Col. Sewall for whom John was named, was a former Air Force officer.

Niagara Falls, the historic landmarks of Boston, and a boat trip around Manhattan Island are other high points, and says Mrs. Sewall, "this will mark my fourth and last climb up the Statue of Liberty!"

In Washington, D.C., they will be house guests of Paul Gardner, former chaplain at Fort Ord. Representative Burt Talcott has arranged for Mrs. Sewall and John to have a VIP trip to the White House.

THAT MUSHROOM

Margaret Roman called to inform the Pine Cone that the 2½-pound mushroom found by the Joseph Biasons grew in Svendal, a Swedish resort town, which fact Mrs. Roman felt would be of interest to Carmel's not inconsiderable Sacndinavian population.

WILHOITS' TRIP

Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Wilhoit have returned from a short visit to Santa Barbara, Doug's boyhood home, where they attended a retirement banquet at the Biltmore for Doug's former Latin teacher, stepping down after 37 years. The occasion served as a "class reunion" for Doug.

FIRST-TIMERS TO MAUI

Mrs. Harlan Ware and her friend Mrs. George Howe of Norwich, Vermont, plan a two-week stay on Maui, Hawaii, their first, in an apartment owned by Mr. and Mrs. Rod Wilson. Rod and Helen also will be vacationing there, and the four plan to return together.

Mrs. Ware's daughter Ciji—Mrs. Stewart Billett—and her Norwegian Elkhound Beowulf will occupy her mother's home during Ruth's absence.

Committee of 200 meets Tuesday at Brey Hall

The Monterey Peninsula Committee of 200, a group which supports the Young Adults for Action (YAFA) in Seaside, will hold its first annual meeting Tuesday at 8 p.m. in Carmel High School's Brey Hall.

The meeting, which will be conducted by temporary chairman Dr. Albert Baez of Carmel Valley, is open to the public and any interested persons are urged to attend.

Members of the newly-incorporated committee will present reports on the committee's first year of activities, contributions and costs.

Also, future plans will be discussed and election of officers held.

Committee goals are to educate its own members and the community at large to the problems of Seaside and to work with YAFA in a variety of ways to solve those problems, continuously maintaining communications between the black and white communities, and to concentrate on raising funds to further YAFA's goals of community improvement, job opportunities and human rehabilitation, especially in areas covered inadequately or not at all by government agencies.

During 1970 the committee raised approximately $1,000, some of which was used by YAFA to carry out an educational program at Monterey Peninsula College, visit local prisoners in various California institutions, purchase documents to assist in fund raising, and attend luncheon meetings of the Monterey Peninsula Interagency Council.

The committee's most recent effort was "An Evening with Young Adults for Action," a presentation of the sights and sounds of YAFA in community action. Pledges and cash resulting from the meeting totaled close to $2,000.

The committee is interested in expanding its membership. Dues are $1 a year for an individual or a family.

For further information on membership or Tuesday's meeting, call Mrs. Meredith MacLaury at 624-8261, ext. 206.

Dormody, Shelton chosen to attend Rotary leadership camp in Sequoia

Carmel High School students Thomas Dormody and Jim Shelton have been selected to attend the second annual Rotary Youth and Leadership "Camp Royal" June 13 through 19.

Camp Royal, located at Lake Sequoia in Sequoia National Park, is sponsored by the Rotary Clubs of Rotary District 522. Students are nominated by their respective schools and selected by a Rotary screening committee on the basis of their positive campus leadership contributions.

The objectives of the camp are to provide an atmosphere where selected leaders will experience democratic living that will aid them in developing sound values; to promote an environment that will provide each individual with a basis of insight and understanding for intelligent leadership; to expose youth leaders to some opportunities and challenges of life in a free democratic society; and to promote involvement that encourages the participants to think through and arbitrate conflicts of values.

Exchange student from Spain could be 'All American boy'

By STEVE HAUK

There are, of course, differences between the United States and Spain. Tony Tormo thinks they are basically little differences, like...well...

"Like the toothpaste...the taste here is horrible!"

Well then, what does Spanish toothpaste taste like?

"I cannot explain how toothpaste tastes...it's just...different."

Recently Tony found an American toothpaste with an O.K. taste, but we're not going to plug it here. But that company would do well to sign Tony for a couple of its toothpaste commercials.

He'd sell a million tubes. Easy-going, loose-jointed, tumbling-into-a-chair, blond-and-tousled, infectious smile, Tony Tormo might be an ad-man's dream of the all-American boy. Only Tony's not American, and anyway he seems too spontaneous, too unaffected and unpretentious to fit an image that has become staid with overuse.

Well, anyway, Tony's probably not much interested in doing TV commercials anyhow (The reporter thought maybe Tony should consider writing as a career when, describing the impression that books and movies had given him of America, he mixed beautifully two of our country's biggest images: "I think I was expecting a big New York City full of Indians."). He's interested in biology and in October will enter the University of Madrid to major in just that.

At the age of 17, Tony Tormo will be one of the youngest Carmel High School graduates to receive his diploma at commencement exercises tonight.

Tony came to America and Carmel last August, sponsored by the American Field Service which, all told, brought 3,000 foreign students to America this year, 14 of them in the Monterey Bay area.

Tony's American family has been the "George R. Walkers of Carmel, who are members of the Carmel Chapter of AFS. On June 27, Tony will leave Carmel, embarking on a bus tour with other AFS students through the Western states to Kansas City, then a flight to New York, then home, Madrid.

While Tony looks forward to his return, he'll leave with some sadness.

"I've met so many people here and have so many friends. And the family I've been living with. It's hard to think that I may not see them again.

"The Walkers are one of the most wonderful families I've met. They've been doing so many things for me."

Tony met the Walkers before he came to America.

"We're the only people who ever met the parents before the child gets here," Mrs. Walker said.

The Walkers, who became interested in the AFS program when they met a South American exchange student in Carmel five years ago, were vacationing in Europe last summer when the AFS informed them Tony would be moving in. So they traveled to Madrid and stayed overnight at the Tormo residence.

TONY TORMO

"We felt much closer to him as a result of knowing his parents," Mrs. Walker said.

With his new family, Tony found his standing with brothers and sisters reversed. In the Tormo family he is the youngest of seven, with the Walkers he is the oldest of five.

"We've learned a lot, needless to say," says Mrs. Walker, an ebullient lady, "about having another child in the family. You have another personality to consider, and it's very interesting."

In addition to finding a decent-tasting toothpaste—oh, what the heck, it was Colgate—Tony found he had a number of other minor adjustments to make upon settling into American life.

For one thing, he had to make a point of pronouncing the last "d" in Madrid hard; in Spain, the last letter is not sounded at all and when Tony told Americans where he was from, they'd say, "Where's that town? I never heard ot it."

And then there were the cold Peninsula waters. In Spain the surrounding seas are warm. "The first week I swam here I was frozen to death."

And then, "I had to get used to speaking in English." Which he does very well.

At the beginning of the school year, he said, while speaking in English he was thinking in Spanish. To keep up in his classes, he decided he would have to think in English, too. He accomplished that, and, in addition:

"Now I dream in English!"

Not only did Tony have to train his mind, he had to train his stomach too.

"In Spain we have dinner at 10 o'clock at night; here you have it at six."

Tony's classes at Carmel High were physics, chemistry, English, biology and U.S. History.

"I really like Carmel High School. It's completely different from my high school in Spain." That high school, Tony said, was a little too conservative.

Asked to compare the students at the two schools, Tony said:

"I think they are mainly the same. I think people all over the world are mainly the same. I think we do the same things when we are going out to have fun," and then he adds, "Americans are bigger and taller."

Asked if he's been approached by anyone pushing drugs, he says:

"Oh, yes. But in Spain we don't have that problem like here. I was surprised to see it was such a problem. In Spain it's not that much of a problem, but it's starting to be a problem now."

One of the things that really surprised Tony about America "is that it is such a big country. There everyone's Spanish. Here you can always find someone's parents or grandparents who come from some other country."

As to AFS, Tony, who admitted that before he arrived here he wasn't that carried away about the exchange program, now says, "It is one of the bigger and better things in the world," one of the best ways "to better understanding between countries" through young people.

Besides Americans, through this year in Carmel Tony has grown to know youths from many other countries, meeting monthly with the 13 other AFS students around the bay area.

"You don't feel they are from different countries," he says, "you just feel they are friends."

One last note: while Tony wouldn't volunteer the information, Mrs. Walker said that Tony received an award this year for being the best chemistry student in the senior class.

So, you see, while Tony probably can't, as he says, describe the taste of American or Spanish toothpaste, he could probably break down any brand-name going and give it a thorough analyzation.

He could tell you "why" it tastes the way it tastes.

Hudson's suit dismissed, Sanitary District sells bonds for $1 million

Monday was a busy day for Bernice Parr, secretary of the Carmel Sanitary District.

She spent the morning in a Salinas courtroom as Superior Court Judge Stanley Lawson formally dismissed a Tom Hudson suit to halt construction of the district's 600-foot ocean outfall line.

As court adjourned and Hudson, of Point Lobos, was heard to comment he wasn't through yet, Mrs. Parr buzzed by with Jeremiah J. Lynch of the district's San Mateo bond firm of Wilson, Jones, Morton and Lynch.

Lynch and Mrs. Parr headed for the county treasurer's office where they picked up $1 million in bonds. The bonds had to be delivered to the Bank of America in San Francisco by 3:30 p.m. The sale of the bonds, authorized by last year's $2.4 million bond issue election for construction of a new secondary treatment plant, was approved by the district board late in March.

The district was given 60 days to deliver the bonds, and this passed last week. The district acquired a seven-day extension. Shelburn Robison said that the bank, which is acting as agent for a number of purchasers, would not pay off on the bonds until the pending litigation was settled. The seven-day extension ended at 3:30 p.m. Monday.

More realistically, Mrs. Parr said, the dealine was 3 p.m., because this is the time banking hours end.

From the county treasurer's office, Lynch and Mrs. Parr drove to San Mateo. There, Lynch got off and attorney Harold Kirkbride drove the rest of the way to San Francisco. They arrived at the bank at 2:30.

"Then I had to sign all 200 bonds, and seal all of them," Mrs. Parr laughed. "I felt like a celebrity—giving an autograph.

"It was really pushing it pretty close."

Mrs. Parr flew back to the Peninsula that night, with a receipt for $1 million in hand.

Shelburn Robison, the district's attorney, said that Lawson, in dismissing Hudson's amended complaint, did so for two reasons: that in amending the original complaint, which the district demurred to and Hudson had 20 days to answer, Hudson had simply deleted four paragraphs, leaving it basically the same as the original, and that Hudson had never served the district with the amended complaint.

Hudson's suit charged that effluent from the Carmel Bay outfall would pollute Point Lobos State Reserve as well as h... own nearby family property.

Town House June programs

The Carmel Foundation will present three programs reflecting the varied interestes and concerns of its members as part of the Wednesday afternoon series for June.

On June 16, Miss Davis McDaniel, librarian of the City of Monterey Library, will discuss reading material she has compiled, particularly stimulating for those over 50, and this list of books will be distributed at the end of her lecture.

The guest speaker on June 23 is Mrs. Ferne H. Mueh from the Monterey Institute of Speech and Hearing. Her topic is "Action Plan: Visual and Auditory Communication for the Hard-of-Hearing," and she will have many self-help techniques to offer.

On June 30, Cora Helen Foley, whose sculptured ceramic heads have been part of the art exhibit at Town House this month, will give a demonstration of ceramics.

All three programs start at 2:30 p.m. in Town House located on Lincoln Street just south of 8th, Carmel, and as customary, tea follows each program.

AIRMAN MOVES UP

Quien Sabe to have both family and children's camps

Camp Quien Sabe, the summer camp program directed by the Monterey Park and Recreation department, will be operating this summer with programs for both children and families.

A family weekend camp is planned for the first time this summer—June 18, 19 and 20. The program will provide a full weekend of activities at Camp Quien Sabe in Big Sur, for 20 families.

The cost for the camp is $7.00 per adult (12 and up) $5.00 children; $1.00 children four and under, and covers everything but transportation. The family needs only to provide sleeping bags and clothing. All cooking is to be done by the regular camp cook staff. A program of activities is planned to involve all members of the family.

Quien Sabe for children also has a new variation this summer. There will be two regular 5-day sessions and one new six day session. The five day sessions run Monday through Friday the weeks of June 14-18 and June 21-25. The six day session runs Sunday through Saturday, June 27-July 3.

This unusually successful children's camp program is a low key, quiet one that provides a really fun week of camping for quiet children as well as more active ones.

The goal of this camping program is to teach and encourage children to live in a natural setting without altering or damaging that environment. Camp Quien Sabe provides youngsters with an opportunity to live in an area that is essentially unchanged by man. The importance of living with nature, not at odds with nature, is stressed throughout the program.

The camp for boys and girls aged 8 to 14 is located at the Big Sur State Park organization camp. The campers, about 50 a week, will be transported by school bus to the camp and return.

Camp Quien Sabe is situated in a beautiful redwood forest bordered on one edge of the Big Sur River. The camp is equipped with modern kitchen and restroom facilities and has a private beach on the river for swimming.

Campers and staff sleep out of doors in sleeping bags under the redwoods. Each day is ended with a rousing campfire program that both campers and staff participate in and enjoy.

Quien Sabe has a full time experienced staff, many of whom have been associated with the camp for years. The camp will be directed again this summer by Mr. and Mrs. Donald B. Reed, Peninsula teachers who have had long association with the Monterey Park and Recreation Department.

The fee for the five day sessions will be $30 for Monterey residents and $35 for non-residents. The six day session will be $36 for residents and $40 for non-residents.

More information may be obtained by phoning 372-8121, ext. 281. Reservations are now being taken at the Park and Recreation office, 546 Dutra Street, Monterey, (in back of Colton Hall).

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

"The Lord shall preserve thy going out and thy coming in from this time forth, and even for evermore." This verse from Psalms will be read at First Church of Christ, Scientist services at 11 a.m. and 5 p.m. on Sunday.

One of the supporting citations from Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy states: "Step by step will those who trust Him find that 'God is our refuge and strength, a very present help in trouble.' " The subject of the lesson-sermon is "God the Preserver of Man."

All are welcome to the services. The church is located at Monte Verde and Sixth.

In Sunday's program in "The Truth That Heals" series, Christian Scientists from Japan, New York and Virginia tell how they solved problems of need in a program entitled, "Food, Money, a Job—What Part Does God Play?" Station KRML carries this series regularly Sundays at 6:30 a.m.

PADRE TRAILS CAMERA CLUB

An unusual travelogue entitled "The Legacy" by Edna Landau of St. Louis will be enjoyed by Padre Trails Camera Club at their meeting next Thursday at 8 p.m. in Carmel High School's Brey Hall.

The essay "covers the western desert by both time) (Cliff Dwellers, Navajos and Modern Man) and space (Apache Trail, Painted Desert, Canyon de Chelley, Grand Canyon, Capitol Reef, Glen Canyon and Monument, Cathedral and Mystery Valleys)."

This is the Photographic Society of America's top award winning travelogue in 1968.

Obituaries

TITUS

Memorial services will be held tomorrow evening at 7 o'clock at the Community Church of the Monterey Peninsula for Mrs. Eva Titus, 83, of Carmel. The Rev. Howard Bull will officiate.

Mrs. Titus, a Peninsula resident for 21 years, died Sunday night at a local hospital.

Survived by her husband, F. William Titus of Carmel, Mrs. Titus was born in Germany. She spent most of her life in China.

She is also survived by a daughter, Felicitas Titus, of Berkeley; a son, Wolfgang, of Salinas; two sisters, Adelheid Phiefer and Suse Mann, both of Germany, and four grand-children.

Contributions are preferred to the Community Church, or the Central Mission Trails Heart Association, Box 300, Carmel.

Mission Mortuary is in charge of arrangements.

GARTH

John Garth, 81, a widely-known San Francisco Bay area artist who designed the mosaic for the Safeway store at the mouth of the Carmel Valley, died recently in Pacifica after a heart attack.

Garth was a founder of the Society of Western Artists.

Palo-Alto Salinas Savings grows

Firmin A. Gryp, president of Palo Alto-Salinas Savings and Loan Association, announced Tuesday that approval has been received for the firm's most recent branch office application.

The new facility, which was approved on June 4 by Michael F.B. MacBan, Savings and Loan Commissioner for the State of California, will be located in the Montclair district of Oakland. The unit will be the 15th office (14th branch) for the $475-million firm, which only last month received stockholder approval for its proposed merger with Carmel Savings.

Arrangements are now being made to open the Montclair office in temporary facilities within 30 to 60 days.

ITALIAN CLASSES DUE AT SUNSET

The Amici d'Italia, a local association of those interested in the culture and language of Italy, will soon offer Beginning, Intermediate and Conversational classes in the Italian language. The classes for each course will be held in the Sunset Center in Carmel from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. once each week for ten weeks. Each individual class will be limited to ten students to facilitate rapid growth in the language. The instruction fee will be $15.

The classes will be taught by professional language teachers.

Interested people should contact Mr. Renzo Latone at 375-9384 for further information on the language classes, or write to the Amici d'Italia, P.O. Box 2927, Carmel, California, 93921.

Painting, sculpture on view at Town House

The works of Margaret Roberts' painting class and ceramic sculptures by Cora Helen Foley are on display through the end of the month at the Carmel Foundation's Town House on Lincoln just south of Eighth.

The paintings represent "problems" set by Mrs. Roberts which each student solved in an individual way. Nearly everyone in the class is studying art for the first time. The exhibit also includes one of Mrs Roberts' watercolors.

Mrs. Foley designs and creates in the medium of clay. She studied ceramics and sculpture at Chico State College, and has executed commissions of sculpture for the Diorama of the Donner Party on view at the Nevada City Museum. A member of the Carmel Art Association, Mrs. Foley's current exhibit is made up of terra cotta heads, all of which are character studies of relatives and friends.

The show may be viewed weekdays from 10 to 5. The public is cordially invited.

Letter

Dear Sir,

I read about the Forest Theater bit. And I don't see any reason why they want to get rid of it. Mrs. Havick (sic) is a good teacher. This is my first year at the Forest Theater and she's taught great. You must have started out early too. I bet you were a reporter before you were a publisher and editor, see you had to start out sometime to. (sic). And, well this is where I want to start out. It's pretty old so why don't they let it stand until it distroys (sic) itself. Well if they need money to help keep it going, I'll be more then (sic) happy to help.

Sincerely yours,
EMILY MORRISON

Most successful Garden Tour ever!

The Monterey Peninsula Volunteer Services (MPVS) at its recent annual luncheon meeting at Carmel's La Playa Hotel, presented a check of $4,900.49, the net proceeds from last month's MPVS House and Garden Tour, to the Visiting Nurse Association.

Mrs. Joe L. Farrow, garden tour chairman, presented the check to Mrs. Charles French, president of the association.

The amount is the largest sum ever realized from the tour during the 18 years it has been arranged and sponsored by the MPVS.

Seated at the head table as guests at the luncheon were a number of owners of the Carmel and Pebble Beach homes and gardens shown on the tour: Mrs. Phillips Norton Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Sletton, Mrs. Fred Cottle, Mrs. Joseph R. Reeves, Mrs. Richard R. Townley, Mr. and Mrs. Lincoln Gould and Mr. and Mrs. Stuart A. Work, at whose home the tea was served to those taking the tour.

During the regular meeting of the MPVS conducted by the president, Mrs. S.Y. Cutler, members voted the sum of $1,000 to Volunteers in Action to assist in their operating expenses.

To Project Aquarius, MPVS pledged $3,000 toward a matching grant which must be raised locally to enable the newly-organized Monterey drug information center to qualify for federal funds. The amount will be made available to Project Aquarius in three installments between now and the end of the year.

The net proceeds from the MPVS Thrift Shop during next week, it was decided, will be set aside for the Monterey Peninsula Council on Alcoholism.

ORDINANCE NO. 54

ORDINANCE REPEALING SECTION 1.13 AND THE PRICE SCHEDULE OF FIRST PARAGRAPH OF SECTION 1121 (b) OF ORDINANCE NO. 42; AND ESTABLISHING SEWER CONNECTION AND INSPECTION COSTS

The Sanitary Board of the Carmel Sanitary District, Monterey County, California, does ordain as follows:

ARTICLE I - DEFINITIONS

Section 1. Family Unit Defined. A unit is defined to mean the dwelling of a single family.

Section 2. Units Established for Buildings other than Single Family Dwellings. The number of units for other establishments shall be as follows:

Multiple family dwelling	0.6 unit per dwelling
Apartment Housing	0.6 unit per dwelling
Hotels and Motor Lodges	0.4 unit per dwelling
Stores, Offices, General Business	2.5 fixture units per unit
Restaurants and banquet rooms	20 seats per unit
Tavern	20 seats per unit
Theater, Meeting Rooms	50 seats per unit

That whenever the Board determines there are special circumstances or conditions applicable to the proposed use of real property, the number of units for such connection cost shall be determined by the Board.

ARTICLE II
CONNECTION AND INSPECTION COSTS

Section 1. That the connection cost for a single family dwelling shall be $100.00. That in the event a connection provides service from the Sanitary District for the first time, the connection cost of $100.00 includes the cost of inspection of the house sewer installation, cost of inspection of the lateral sewer installation and the cost of wye connection, including labor and material.

Section 2. Annual Increase of Connection Charge. That on July 1 1972, and each July 1st thereafter, the connection charge of $100.00 set forth above shall be increased TWENTY-FIVE DOLLARS ($25.00); provided that the District Board may, at its option, determine by resolution adopted prior thereto that such increase shall not be effective for the next succeeding year.

Section 3. That the connection cost where the lateral sewer is installed but the house sewer is not installed shall be TWENTY-FIVE DOLLARS ($25.00).

Section 4. REPAIR JOB INSPECTION That whenever a repair job is made on the house sewer and the lateral the inspection charge shall be TWENTY-FIVE DOLLARS ($25.00).

ARTICLE III

Section 1. This Ordinance repeals Section 1.13 and the Price Schedule of First Paragraph of Section 1121 (b) of Ordinance No. 42.

Section 2. That any person violating any of the provisions of this ordinance, whether acting for himself or as the agent or servant of another person, or of a firm, company or corporation or as an officer, agent, employee or representative of any municipal corporation or of the State, shall be punishable by a fine of not less than TWENTY-FIVE DOLLARS ($25.00), nor more than ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS ($100.00), or by imprisonment for a term of not more than thirty (30) days, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

Section 3. That all ordinances and parts of ordinances as they conflict with this ordinance are hereby repealed.

Section 4. That this ordinance shall take effect and be in force one (1) week after the date of publication.

Section 5. That this ordinance shall be published once in the Carmel Pine Cone, a newspaper of general circulation published in the district.

PASSED AND ADOPTED at a meeting of the Sanitary Board of the Carmel Sanitary District, held therein on the 8th day of June, 1971, at the office of said Sanitary Board by the following vote:
AYES: Members: Arnot, Fonseca, Lewis, Pruitt, Shepard
NOES: Members: None
ABSENT: Members: None

HAROLD C. ARNOT
President of said Sanitary Board

Countersigned:
BERNICE PARR
Secretary of the Board.

I, the undersigned Secretary of the Sanitary Board of the Carmel Sanitary District, do hereby certify:

That the foregoing Ordinance is a true and correct copy of Ordinance No. 54 of said Carmel Sanitary Board, which was introduced at a regular meeting of said Sanitary Board, held on the 8th day of June, 1971, and passed and adopted by said Board.

Most successful Garden Tour ever!

The Monterey Peninsula Volunteer Services (MPVS) at its recent annual luncheon meeting at Carmel's La Playa Hotel, presented a check of $4,900.49, the net proceeds from last month's MPVS House and Garden Tour, to the Visiting Nurse Association.

Mrs. Joe L. Farrow, garden tour chairman, presented the check to Mrs. Charles French, president of the association.

The amount is the largest sum ever realized from the tour during the 18 years it has been arranged and sponsored by the MPVS.

Seated at the head table as guests at the luncheon were a number of owners of the Carmel and Pebble Beach homes and gardens shown on the tour: Mrs. Phillips Norton Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Sletton, Mrs. Fred Cottle, Mrs. Joseph R. Reeves, Mrs. Richard R. Townley, Mr. and Mrs. Lincoln Gould and Mr. and Mrs. Stuart A. Work, at whose home the tea was served to those taking the tour.

During the regular meeting of the MPVS conducted by the president, Mrs. S.Y. Cutler, members voted the sum of $1,000 to Volunteers in Action to assist in their operating expenses.

To Project Aquarius, MPVS pledged $3,000 toward a matching grant which must be raised locally to enable the newly-organized Monterey drug information center to qualify for federal funds. The amount will be made available to Project Aquarius in three installments between now and the end of the year.

The net proceeds from the MPVS Thrift Shop during next week, it was decided, will be set aside for the Monterey Peninsula Council on Alcoholism.

ORDINANCE NO. 54

ORDINANCE REPEALING SECTION 1.13 AND THE PRICE SCHEDULE OF FIRST PARAGRAPH OF SECTION 1121 (b) OF ORDINANCE NO. 42; AND ESTABLISHING SEWER CONNECTION AND INSPECTION COSTS

The Sanitary Board of the Carmel Sanitary District, Monterey County, California, does ordain as follows:

ARTICLE I - DEFINITIONS

Section 1. Family Unit Defined. A unit is defined to mean the dwelling of a single family.

Section 2. Units Established for Buildings other than Single Family Dwellings. The number of units for other establishments shall be as follows:

Multiple family dwelling	0.6 unit per dwelling
Apartment Housing	0.6 unit per dwelling
Hotels and Motor Lodges	0.4 unit per dwelling
Stores, Offices, General Business	2.5 fixture units per unit
Restaurants and banquet rooms	20 seats per unit
Tavern	30 seats per unit
Theater, Meeting Rooms	50 seats per unit

That whenever the Board determines there are special circumstances or conditions applicable to the proposed use of real property, the number of units for such connection cost shall be determined by the Board.

ARTICLE II

CONNECTION AND INSPECTION COSTS

Section 1. That the connection cost for a single family dwelling shall be $100.00. That in the event a connection provides service from the Sanitary District for the first time, the connection cost of $100.00 includes the cost of inspection of the house sewer installation, cost of inspection of the lateral sewer installation and the cost of wye connection, including labor and material.

Section 2. Annual Increase of Connection Charge. That on July 1 1972, and each July 1st thereafter, the connection charge of $100.00 set forth above shall be increased TWENTY-FIVE DOLLARS ($25.00); provided that the District Board may, at its option, determine by resolution adopted prior thereto that such increase shall not be effective for the next succeeding year.

Section 3. That the connection cost where the lateral sewer is installed but the house sewer is not installed shall be TWENTY-FIVE DOLLARS ($25.00).

Section 4. REPAIR JOB INSPECTION That whenever a repair job is made on the house sewer and the lateral the inspection charge shall be TWENTY-FIVE DOLLARS ($25.00).

ARTICLE III

Section 1. This Ordinance repeals Section 1.13 and the Price Schedule of First Paragraph of Section 1121 (b) of Ordinance No. 42.

Section 2. That any person violating any of the provisions of this ordinance, whether acting for himself or as the agent or servant of another person, or of a firm, company or corporation or as an officer, agent, employee or representative of any municipal corporation or of the State, shall be punishable by a fine of not less than TWENTY-FIVE DOLLARS ($25.00), nor more than ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS ($100.00), or by imprisonment for a term of not more than thirty (30) days, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

Section 3. That all ordinances and parts of ordinances as they conflict with this ordinance are hereby repealed.

Section 4. That this ordinance shall take effect and be in force one (1) week after the date of publication.

Section 5. That this ordinance shall be published once in the Carmel Pine Cone, a newspaper of general circulation published in the district.

PASSED AND ADOPTED at a meeting of the Sanitary Board of the Carmel Sanitary District, held therein on the 8th day of June, 1971, at the office of said Sanitary Board by the following vote:
AYES: Members: Arnot, Fonseca, Lewis, Pruitt, Shepard
NOES: Members: None
ABSENT: Members: None

HAROLD C. ARNOT
President of said Sanitary Board

Countersigned:
BERNICE PARR
Secretary of the Board.

I, the undersigned Secretary of the Sanitary Board of the Carmel Sanitary District, do hereby certify:

That the foregoing Ordinance is a true and correct copy of Ordinance No. 54 of said Carmel Sanitary Board, which was introduced at a regular meeting of said Sanitary Board, held on the 8th day of June, 1971, and passed and adopted by said Board.

For Rent Commercial

ONE OF the loveliest skylighted ideas for the Forge in the Forest is that of one inspired lady to make it a Children's Craft Center and Gallery. What a beautiful cooperative effort it could be for talented teachers. What a boon to appreciative parents and what an achievement for the naturally talented young fry of the Peninsula to have 800 square feet to create and show in. Well worth considering as a group cooperative effort, say we at 372-0804.

there is nothing like starting the day eating breakfast under the fuschia trees or by garden-bright windows full of geraniums, impatiens, & vines.

there is nothing like the he-man serving of cowboy scrambled eggs Dru does with potatoes, onions, bellpeppers & salsa with an oven-hot scone slathered all over with butter along with a hottle of coffee or a pottle of tea.

there is nothing like the old cook stove now serving as a tasting bar with home baked bread squares to pile high with all Dru's good jams & condiments — In fact ...

there is nothing like The Keeping Room for marvelously fragrant breakfasts – yummy luncheons & lolapalooza dessert teas — on Junipero between 5th & 6th, Carmel – 624-4313.

Beautiful

Carmel Valley Estate

This beautifully detailed home on 3.9 acres was architect-designed and built for its present owner. It is reached at the end of a long-tree-lined, gracious lane which is framed by white ranch fencing. The house is situated completely away from the paved county road which serves as access to the property. A luxury home of two bedrooms, three baths, plus a family room. The barn, composed of two box stalls and tack room, is well away from the house.

A World of Your Own

THIS IS WHAT WE OFFER YOU on a 165' lot in a quiet, forested area — and SO close in. The rhododendrons, azaleas and camellias are in glorious bloom and set off a most unusual timbered home.

Its 30' living room with oak plank floors opens from a gracious entry. Each of the 2 bedrooms has its own quality bath, and the kitchen has everything. And downstairs? Would you believe another bedroom — this one 30' with fireplace and bath? Or why not use it as a den?

The landscaping? Thomas Church did it and it's like a private park. $90,000 is the price and the value is much greater, but it CAN be yours for that!

AND HERE'S ANOTHER WORLD FOR YOU! In the Highlands we offer a lovely old home with "excellent bones" and full of mellow charm. Enjoy the views of white-water surf from the handsome redwood living room with immense fireplace, the sunny landscaped yard from the dining room with its warming fireplace.

The house has had a pampered life and is made cozy by central heating. In addition to the 2 bedrooms and baths, there are two separate guest houses too, for guests or studios.

You'd better see this lovely home at only $59,500. We'll make the appointment for you!

MISSION FIELDS 3-BEDROOM, $37,500

Mission Fields houses are rarely for sale, but here's the change you've been waiting for. The house is on a quiet corner lot that is most attractively landscaped, and it is in quite good condition. It has 2 baths, a double garage, shake roof and carpeting throughout. Shown by appointment. Exclusive.

THE BIGGEST, MOST UNUSUAL OCEAN FRONT HOUSE WE'VE EVER HAD FOR SALE

And one of the most expensive, too. It has 4 bedrooms and 4 baths, though basically it's a huge, 1-bedroom home of about 12,000 square feet. The indoor pool is over 20' x 40'. It's just south of Rocky Point restaurant on about 4 acres of land. Call us for details and an appointment to see it.

A DUPLEX 2 BLOCKS FROM THE BEACH

This is a legal though non-conforming building in very good condition, right in Carmel's best residential district. Each unit has 2 bedrooms, 1 bath, living room, kitchen and fireplace. Each is presently leased. A rare opportunity at $64,750.

3-BEDROOM, 2-BATH CHARMER, SOUTH OF OCEAN NEAR THE BEACH, $47,500

Run, don't walk to our office and arrange to see a great new listing, on Camino Real near 11th, a perfect location. It's an older (not old) Carmel home that feels right. If you're looking for a good house in a top area, don't miss this one.

ON THE POINT. Handsome, older home, covering three lots in top location on Carmel Point. The entire exterior of the home is lovely Carmel chalk rock, and the roof is shingled. The home has a mellowed stone-floor entry, large living room with chalk-rock fireplace, library with fireplace and complete bath, and separate dining room overlooks charming garden. Two bedrooms, sitting room and bath on main level. Upper story has lovely old redwood walls, one bedroom, bath, and an enormous dormitory or playroom. Kitchen and baths need remodeling. An estate has just been settled and the heir wishes to sell immediately and has priced the property accordingly. An excellent buy at $80,500!

PEBBLE BEACH. It's contemporary! It's charming! It's a fine home for the young in heart. Extra large living room with wall of glass opens onto deck and overlooks beautiful garden. Separate dining room with brick floor. Well-equipped kitchen adjoins family gathering room. Master bedroom is 16' x 20', has a charming garden outlook, and bathroom that includes whirlpool bath. Two additional bedrooms and bath, plus den-library and bath. The double garage has an electric door opener and a storage room. This home has a great flair and style and is priced at $115,000.

OWNER WANTS ACTION. Charming home located on corner lot, completely fenced for privacy, and both garden and home in excellent condition. Entry opens to lovely living room with fireplace, separate dining room, two large bedrooms each with own bath, and an additional ½ bath off kitchen. Family room (or den-guest room) opens onto entry patio. Our pleasure to show at $55,900.

SHAFTER WAY. We're privileged and proud to offer this prime property in excellent Carmel location. This beautiful, spacious home (over 4000 square feet) on over ½ acre of land has all the charm of an older home PLUS all the conveniences for today's busy family. It is truly a family home with one wing for the youngsters — 3 bedrooms, large bath with Jacuzzi, and own telephone. Master bedroom opens to sundeck and has adjoining bath. Guest bedroom and bath on separate level. Main floor has huge beamed-ceiling living room off entry, spacious separate dining room, stainless steel kitchen totally equipped to serve the largest of gatherings, and on and on and on. You must see this lovely home, for it is impossible to cover it's many outstanding features in this column. Please call us for an appointment. $150,000.

LINES FROM LOIS

Every year a rather remarkable musical event packs Sunset Auditorium for two nights and gives the happy listeners a glow which lasts until the next performance -- the annual presentation of barbershop choruses and quartets, last weekend including the Mayor's Ragtime Four (Five?) and several spectacular local and visting quartets. This year, for many, the really unforgettable experience was a happening at the Afterglow following the Saturday night performance, when Sister St. Christopher, Mistress of Ceremonies from Salinas, sang to her guitar accompaniment the contemporary folk ballad, "A Bridge Over Troubled Waters." The meoldy of this beautiful love song lingers as I sit down to write some lines this week about four of our favorite houses, for it seems to me that houses like these, so serene and so peaceful in feeling, might truly be a "bridge over troubled waters" for their owners -- an escape from the turbulence of the world.

You have just entered beautiful wrought iron gates and are approaching the front door to the main house of this private world in Carmel Valley, which includes, among its many charms, a wonderful swimming pool, fabulous oak trees, a marvelous master bedroom with fireplace, and a divisible site, all for $85,000.

In Carmel Meadows, a quietly handsome home is enhanced by a spacious covered patio and garden with the everlasting hills as the backdrop. Wonderful walking on the beaches in this area, too. See what $74,500 includes along with the peace and quiet.

On Carmel Point, we had to climb the lovely old wall to take this picture of one of Hugh Comstock's original private-world creations, all freshly redecorated and modernized by Very Particular Owners. Around the corner from the sea and an utterly enchanting creation in every way. Price $119,000.

LET US HELP YOU FIND -- NOT A "HOUSE", BUT A "HOME" -- which can truly be for you a "BRIDGE OVER THE TROUBLED WATERS OF OUR MODERN WORLD.

Nadas to teach at MPC, play in Carmel this summer

Famed pianist Istvan Nadas will return to Monterey Peninsula College this summer as "musician-in-residence," according to an announcement by Dr. Keith Merrill, MPC dean of community eduction.

Long a recitalist and soloist with major orchestras, Dr. Nadas will conduct a piano workshop and keyboard class during the college's summer session starting June 21.

The one-unit workshop will meet Tuesday and Thursday mornings, but Nadas will be available for auditions and consultation Monday, June 14, from 9 to 11 a.m. and 1:30 to 3 p.m., and Tuesday, June 15, from 9 to 10 a.m. in Room M-1 on the west side of campus.

A unit of credit may also be earned for piano workshop observation and-or for the keyboard survey class, which Nadas will instruct Monday, Wednesday and Friday mornings.

Registration will be handled by retired MPC faculty member Angie Machado, of Carmel, who first brought Nadas to the college for performances when she was administering the popular concert series there. Nadas also appeared in recital and taught an MPC master class in 1969, and that same year created "a furor," according to Miss Machado, when he performed as a soloist with the Carmel Bach Festival orchestra and gave a morning all-Bach recital for a "standing room only" audience. He will also participate in the festival this summer.

The internationally known artist, a graduate of the National Academy of Budapest, studied piano with Bela Bartok, composition with Zoltan Kodaly and chamber music with Leo Weiner. In his teens he toured Europe with major orchestras. After World War II, he toured Europe, the United States and New Zealand as a soloist and recitalist, always to great public acclaim.

Now a member of the Washington State University faculty, Nadas has also taught at Loyola University, San Francisco State College

City fathers consider ban on open burning

"There is a question as to whether or not open bruning in Carmel has any effect on air pollution," Carmel City Administrator and City Clerk Hugh Bayless said.

The problem of air pollution, Bayless added, seems mainly to be a commercial one.

The City Council was expected to take a stand on open burning, opposed or unopposed, at last night's regular monthly meeting, and forward it to the Monterey-Santa Cruz Unified Air Pollution Control District.

The district has set a public hearing for June 28 in Salinas in the county supervisors' chambers on a resolution which "will in effect ban all back yard burning, including both household rubbish and yard trimmings" and "will prohibit the use or burn barrels, single chamber incinerators and open burning after January 1, 1973," according to Edward W. Munson, air pollution control officer.

"The proposed resolution," Munson wrote the council, "does not ban fires for the cooking of food, the use of fireplaces or fires used for recreational purpose. This includes, of course, barbecues and camp fires as allowable activities."

Indoor Gym House
From 1 year. As basic for indoor play as the tricycle is for outdoors. Children are ready for the exerciser as soon as they can walk. For climbing, sliding, hiding in and around as children develop muscles and coordination.

Wood Hi-Sticks
From 7 years. Once mastered, stilts are a source of real fun and a great builder of self-confidence. These have foot pieces at two levels, 10½" and 14½" from the ground, so children can learn to walk with them at the lower height then turn the poles and graduate to the higher level.

Skate Scooter
From 4 years. The wide footboard and four roller-skate wheels make it stable and easy to ride. Wooden scooter with clear lacquer finish.

Spiralo®
From 3 years. A long thin snake of inflatable vinyl that wraps around any size person for swimming. It spirals into an air cushion for sitting on pebbly beaches. When deflated, it flattens for easy carrying.
